Gov. O'Neill, DiSalle Lead In Ohio Races

Ala. Demo Governor Battle Shaping Up As 3-Man Contest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A duplicate of the 1956 Ohio gubernatorial race appears in the making. With about a fourth of Tuesday's light primary election vote counted, Democrat Michael V. DiSalle of Toledo held a 2-1 edge over his nearest rival, and Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill appeared assured of renomination. But, surprisingly, O'Neill had only a 3-2 edge over Cincinnati's Charles P. Taft, a man who practically did no campaigning. With 3,177 of Ohio's 12,499 polling places reporting, the count was: O'Neill 77,661, Taft 46,429. Apparently Cleveland Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze and his fellow Clevelanders, Albert S. Porter, were dividing the big vote of their home Cuyahoga County in such a way that neither could win the Democratic nomination for governor.

Alabama Race Close

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A three-man fight for the Democratic nomination for Alabama governor was indicated on scattered early returns in Tuesday's party primary. Early results were too inconclusive to give any inkling of the heated race for the state Democratic Executive Committee which could determine whether this state supports the 1960 nominee for president.

Returns from 74 of the 3,261 boxes in the governor's race gave: Atty. Gen. John Patterson, 36, son of the man slain at Phenix City in 1944 to set off a crime cleanup there—4,599 votes. Judge George Wallace, 39, who said he would jail FBI agents or any other federal officials who sought to investigate racial matters in his court—3,326. He is from Clayton, Ala. Jimmy Faulkner, 42, Bay Minette weekly newspaper publisher—2,763. The other 11 candidates were well behind on these returns.

Ind. Incumbents Win

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Indiana renominated its 11 incumbent congressmen, nine Republicans and two Democrats, in a ho-hum Hoosier primary election Tuesday sparked only by scattered local contests.

Although four Republican representatives and one Democrat were challenged for another two-year term, only two GOP nominees had real opposition. These two, Reps. Cecil Harden of the state's 6th Dist. and Charles Brownson of the 11th Dist., embracing Indianapolis, were victorious.

Unofficial estimates were that about 800,000 voters, approximately 30 per cent of the state's electorate, voted.

Gallant Gesture

NEW YORK (AP)—Film actress Bette Davis waved so hard from the liner Independence Tuesday a gold chain bracelet fell from her arm onto the pier.

A line representative retrieved it just as the liner pulled away for its trip to Europe. He boarded a tug which took him to the vessel in midstream and he returned it to Miss Davis. She was unaware of her loss.

Talked Out Of Surrender By Girl, Mass Killer Says

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Murder defendant Charles Starkweather was quoted Tuesday as saying he wanted to give himself up at one point in a January killing rampage but was talked out of it by his girl friend.

East Indonesia Rebel Raiders Invade Island

SINGAPORE (AP)—Indonesian rebels led by Col. Jenje Sumual were reported Tuesday to have invaded and captured part of Halmahera Island, largest of the Moluccas.

Accounts from usually reliable sources said the raiders, striking 200 miles across the Moluccas Sea from their headquarters at Menado, Celebes, seized Djailolo Town and took over the island's airfield.

No resistance was indicated. It was the second amphibious operation launched in the past week from Menado, the rebel stronghold which the Jakarta government now threatens to make the target of an invasion fleet.

Morotai, an Allied World War II base, was the first objective of the Menado forces. The reports indicated the East Indonesian troops in Morotai, who were formerly loyal to the Jakarta government, had not pledged allegiance to the rebel command.

Advices from Menado indicated that Ambon, 250 miles to the south, would be the next objective of the rebel forces in East Indonesia. Rebel bombers have made attacks on Ambon during the past two weeks.

Col. Alex Kawilarang, commander in chief of the rebel Celebes forces, has a handful of bombers which would threaten any invasion convoy.

No Press Conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will pass up a news conference this week, the White House announced.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower decided against a session Wednesday, the usual day for the conferences, because he has a fairly heavy schedule.

In a signed statement which Starkweather gave authorities following his arrest, according to defense lawyers for the 19-year-old red-head.

Although the Starkweather trial was still in the jury selection stage, defense lawyers T. Clement Gaughan and William Matschuljat read to newsmen a portion of the statement. In it, Starkweather said his girl friend and traveling companion, 14-year-old Caril Ann Fugate, held a .410 guage shotgun on two Benet, Neb., teenagers before they were killed.

Starkweather is charged specifically in the death of Robert Jensen, 17, one of the Benet victims. The defense attorneys quoted Starkweather as saying he was miffed at Caril as they fled the Benet slaying scene "and I said I am going to give myself up."

The statement quoted Starkweather as then saying Caril replied to him "she wasn't going to give up and she wasn't going to let anything stand in the way of her giving up (sic)."

Seven Policemen Jailed, Charged With Burglary

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP)—Seven members of the Idaho Falls police force were charged with burglary today and jailed.

The seven made up almost the entire night shift of the city's police force of more than 40 men. Police Chief A. L. Cramer, City Atty. Arthur Smith of Bonneville, and County Prosecuting Atty. Edward W. Pike said that under questioning all seven admitted they had participated in the looting of business firms and a model home.

Chief Cramer said the investigation failed to show any of the men tried to sell the loot. He said they took most of it home for their own use.

Danish Official Quizzed As Spy

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—State police announced Tuesday night they have arrested a Danish diplomat on evidence that top secret papers involving this NATO nation may have reached Eastern hands.

The diplomat is Einar Blechberg, 62, trade adviser at the Danish embassy in Bonn for almost two years. Legation counselor in Washington in 1940-41, he has been a top man in Denmark's postwar trade negotiations with the Soviet Union and other Communist bloc countries.

The state police announced they had brought Blechberg back from West Germany to face questioning on improper handling of state papers.

A veteran diplomat with service in Poland, Iran, Switzerland, Mexico as well as the United States, he is now held incommunicado. The case was disclosed Monday by Preimer H. C. Hansen, who identified Blechberg and said security officials had been sent to Bonn to take him into custody.

No charge has been placed against Blechberg. He is listed as being held for investigation.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Chamber of Commerce said Tuesday general tax revision is long overdue. It recommended income tax cuts as an immediate and urgent requirement for economic expansion.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Chamber of Commerce said Tuesday general tax revision is long overdue. It recommended income tax cuts as an immediate and urgent requirement for economic expansion. "We figure, though, that casualties will be less because of improved planning by state and local governments and better evacuation methods," a spokesman said. The attack lasted about three hours and the alert about five. The test continues through Wednesday. Mock bombs having the explosive power of as much as 10 million tons of TNT rained down on 270 cities and military installations in the opening hours of the nationwide exercise—dubbed "Operation Alert 1958."

GOP Senators Split On Labor Reform Steps

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican senators have split over what to put into a labor bill scheduled for a floor fight next month.

While some spoke out for a non-controversial measure, Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said he would not go along "with the idea of putting out what you might call a sweetheart type of bill just so we can get in bed with labor and not make anybody mad."

Goldwater said he'd rather have no bill at all this session than a half-hearted attempt to cope with corruption and other labor union abuses exposed by the Senate Rackets Committee.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) urged the Senate Labor subcommittee, which will draft the legislation, to limit the bill to President Eisenhower's 1958 labor recommendations plus some measures to control racketeering and improve democratic processes in unions.

Testifying Tuesday at the second day of subcommittee hearings, Smith said he agreed with Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) the subcommittee chairman, that it is impossible to write a major revision of the Taft-Hartley labor law this year.

Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.), senior GOP member of the subcommittee, commented that there are indications the House is not going to be particularly interested in passing labor legislation this year.

In view of that, he asked, would it not be wise for the subcommittee to report a bill containing a minimum of controversy.

It was at this point that Goldwater expressed his views. But he did say he was willing to forego a vote at this time on some of the most controversial proposals, including one of his own to ban the union shop. In a union shop all workers must join the union.

Allies Back Dulles' Call For Caution

Western Thinking On Summit Parley Undergoes Change

COPENHAGEN (AP)—The NATO foreign ministers Tuesday established a solid front on summit talks by agreeing that Secretary of State Dulles was right all along in his cautious approach.

A diplomatic source said Russia's recent maneuvers "have opened the eyes of many Europeans." He reported a marked change in Western thinking since the North Atlantic Council meeting in Paris last December.

Now, the informant said, not one of America's allies believes it wise to rush to top-level meetings with the Russians.

Adequate Preparation

All agreed during two days of consultations here that any summit meeting must be adequately prepared and must show in advance some prospect of East-West agreement on a basic point of world tension.

That is what Dulles has insisted on from the start. But last December, in the wake of the Soviet Sputnik launchings, some of the 15 NATO members seemed disposed to try out the summit idea regardless.

Red Note Causes Little Stir

The latest Soviet note on summit preparations created little stir in the NATO Council. French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said it contained "absolutely no new element."

U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson flew here from his Moscow post with word of the Soviet Union's latest maneuvers.

The French, making an independent assessment of what Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was up to, came to the same conclusion as the Americans—the Russians were still stalling.

Folsom To Quit Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is to get a new secretary this year—the third in its five years of existence.

Sec. Marion B. Folsom has informed President Eisenhower he wants to leave the post. White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Tuesday.

Widespread reports that Arthur S. Flemming, now president of Ohio Wesleyan University, would come west to Washington to succeed Folsom drew neither confirmation nor denial from Hagerty.

"Until I know there is a vacancy, I have no comment," he said. Folsom, 64, a Georgian who made good in a big way with the Eastman Kodak Co. at Rochester, N.Y., has headed the department since the summer of 1955.

Recognized as one of the founding fathers of the Social Security System in the 1930s, Folsom has guided activities ranging from distribution of 9.3 million social security checks each month, to water pollution and to what to do about retarded children.

Senate Jobless Pay Action Expected Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said Tuesday he expects Senate action this month on a bill to extend unemployment compensation benefits.

Johnson told an informal news conference that despite previous reports that he is ready to support a bill approved by President Eisenhower and passed by the House, he has made no decision on the measure.

Cannon Backs Ike's Military Overhaul Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.), one of the most influential House leaders, endorsed without qualification Tuesday President Eisenhower's plan to overhaul the military high command. He urged Congress to approve it as soon as possible to end the "insane bicker between the services."

Cannon, a dollar-conscious man as chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said the plan would eliminate costly overlapping and duplication. And he belittled fears that the way would be opened for a future dictator to merge or abolish the services without restraint.

"No substantial changes will be possible without the tacit or explicit approval of Congress," Cannon told the House. He added that Congress, through its control of appropriations, could prevent any abuse of powers. The President's plan basically would give the secretary of defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff more direct control over the separate services.

Cannon called Eisenhower's plan a "reasonable, sensible, long-delayed, much-needed revision." He said there should be "no compromise," a phrase used by Eisenhower himself in saying he would not yield on essentials of his plan.

Scientists Making Flight In Balloon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two scientists were headed into the lower stratosphere Tuesday night in a balloon launched from an open mine near Crosby, Minn., the Navy announced.

The Navy said it is the first time an astronomer will go much above the earth's atmosphere for observations. The balloon was launched at 8:50 p.m. (EDT) and is expected to reach top altitude of about 40,000 feet about 10:35 p.m. (EDT).

The two observers are expected to land in the vicinity of Dubuque, Iowa, early Wednesday after the night flight in the open basket Strato-lift gondola.

Eisenhower Says GOP Can Win Congress

President Labels Defense, Aid, Trade Plans As "Musts"

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Tuesday night called for speedy approval of his defense reorganization, foreign aid and world trade programs to meet the Communist threat "in a situation of balanced terror in the world."

In a speech prepared for a dinner honoring Republican members of Congress, Eisenhower appealed for action on those programs without regard to party labels.

But he also told his GOP audience that the party's prospects for capturing control of Congress from the Democrats in the November elections are bright.

"If we will but try—if we will never forget the value of good hard work, we are certain, with our record, to win next November," Eisenhower said in an address also carried coast-to-coast on television and radio.

"This," said the President, "is the sure road to a Republican 86th Congress."

And Eisenhower pledged "you will find me standing beside you doing my very best for every member of our grand old party who carries forward the never ending fight for peace, for security, for sound, sane and progressive government in America."

Kick-off Of GOP Drive

Eisenhower reserved his political remarks for the conclusion of his talk, billed by the GOP National Committee as the formal kick-off of the party's drive to take over control of both the Senate and the House from the Democrats.

For the most part, the President spoke of the tense world situation and appealed for action on programs to deal with it without respect to partisanship.

"We must, every one of us, never forget that we have entered an era that is for our country entirely new," Eisenhower said. "Inescapably we live in a time of great uneasiness, in a situation of balanced terror in the world."

He spoke of the menace of Communist imperialism—"Tyrannical, insensitive to the needs of its own people, contemptuous of religious faith and human dignity and worth, and obsessed with the goal of dominating the world."

Mighty Weapons

He spoke, too, of this age of nuclear explosives, ocean-spanning missiles, aircraft of great range and speed, and of submarines capable of launching nuclear-tipped weapons of tremendous range from under the sea's surface.

Turning then to the first of the three programs on which he urged swift congressional action, Eisenhower plugged hard once more for approval of the administration's controversial Pentagon reorganization program.

After ticking off improvements he expects to result from the reorganization plan, Eisenhower said:

"From these changes I expect very specific results: A stronger, more efficient defense—a less costly, more tightly directed defense—and every spring, come appropriation time, a more rational, less noisy defense."

As for his $3,900,000,000 foreign aid program, also facing rough going on Congress, the President said that through that mutual security plan the United States already has forged a free world shield against Communist force.

Newlywed Dennis Crosby Reported To Be Father

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Dennis Crosby, who married a showgirl on the spur of the moment Sunday, was reported Tuesday to be the father of a girl born last November to a Hollywood beauty.

The 23-year-old son of crooner Bing Crosby refused to comment on a copyrighted story in the Los Angeles Herald-Express which said the mother is Mrs. Marilyn Scott, 25, a brunette beauty who came here seven years ago from Kentucky to seek a movie career.

Dennis is honeymooning with Pat Sheehan, 26, who is appearing nightly at a casino in this gambling resort. The couple posed for pictures after the story broke Tuesday, but only on the condition they be asked no questions.

In Hollywood, both the Herald-Express and the Mirror-News quoted Mrs. Scott as saying Dennis is the father of Denise Michelle Scott, born last Nov. 24 at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital in Los Angeles.

City birth records give the mother's maiden name as Marilyn Miller. They list the father of the child as Dennis Michael Crosby, 24, and give his occupation as "UCLA student."

The Herald-Express said Mrs. Scott is a divorcee who came here from Hillsboro, Ky., and has since done modeling and a telephone switchboard work.

The paper's story quoted her: "I'm sorry this had to come out. I have more sorry for the effect it will have on my baby's future. I met Dennis a year ago last January after my divorce. He came up to my table in a Sunset Strip restaurant and introduced himself. That began the friendship. The Crosbys have been fair and square with me. The support Dennis is paying is enough."

Ike Gives Blessing To Confidence Drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower gave his blessing Tuesday to a four-month campaign by the Advertising Council to "Spread Confidence in a Growing America."

The council is pushing this effort with 10 million dollars worth of donated space and time, in publications and on the air.

"I cannot think of any greater opportunity than to make every American understand that he is not scared, that he can go ahead if he wants to," Eisenhower said.

Eisenhower also put in a plug for his proposed five-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements, saying: "To put on unconscionable tariffs, to establish broad-based import quotas, would be ruinous to America."

The Advertising Council is a private organization which combines the various elements of advertising into campaigns for the public good such as promotion of teaching as a career, and sales of savings bonds.

Eisenhower spoke to 220 members of the group, while these other things happened along the economic front:

1. Tool and die makers holding a Washington convention reported their business is picking up. They called this a sign that mass production manufacturers are growing more optimistic.
2. President William A. McDonnell of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce told the House Banking Committee that general tax revision is long overdue.
3. Sen. William F. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, said in an interview that the administration is keeping a close check on trends but he does not expect any immediate decision on possible tax reductions.

Knowland gave his report after Sen. Clifford Case (R-N.J.) called for a decision by Congress now on whether to cut income and excise taxes.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, said he expects the Senate will act this month on a bill to extend unemployment compensation benefits.

Robber Faints From Hunger During Holdup

OROVILLE, Calif. (AP) — A bank robber fainted from hunger Tuesday before the teller could count out the money.

Police carried Timothy J. Mahoney, 49, out of the bank on a stretcher.

A doctor said he was suffering from malnutrition. Mrs. Pat Tandler, 23, teller at the bank, had counted out almost $3,000 for the robber when he plopped on the floor. He was unarmed, but had simulated a pistol in his pocket.

Slide Blocks C&O Traffic

HINTON (AP) — Mud studded with rocks and trees oozed down a rain-soaked mountain side 22 miles west of here early Tuesday, blocking all traffic on the main line of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway.

The slide covered east and west tracks, inconveniencing hundreds of travelers, among them 150 Michigan high school boys and girls on their way to Washington, D.C.

An alert engine crew on an earlier train averted what might have been a tragic accident.

The crew members, aboard the eastbound George Washington, discovered the slide already on the westbound tracks. Alerted by a call, division headquarters here switched the westbound section of the George Washington to the parallel tracks.

Before daybreak, both lines were covered to depths-up to eight feet over a 700-foot long stretch.

Railroad workers hoped to clear the east tracks Tuesday night, and finish the job Wednesday.

Steam In Bathroom Suffocates Child

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A 2-year-old boy suffocated Tuesday after steam from a hot water faucet filled his bathroom.

Richard Blackwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Blackwell, apparently was unable to open the bathroom door, officers said. His parents and a younger brother were asleep.

Bank Robbery Haul Now Set At $3,765,000

MONTREAL (AP) — Officials figuring up the haul in Brockville's weekend safecracking got up to $3,765,000 Tuesday.

One unofficial source speculated the total might be as high as 7½ million dollars.

Police widened their search for the gang that entered the vault of the Brockville Trust and Savings Co. and pulled one of the biggest burglaries in Canada's history.

One man, identified by police as Rene Martin, 31, of Montreal, was under questioning. Officers said they expected to make a number of arrests — possibly as many as 14.

Two bags full of securities were recovered and officials have estimated their total amount at $500,000.

Officials in Brockville Monday estimated the loot at $2,240,000 in negotiable bonds and $15,000 in cash, plus an unknown amount of non-negotiable bonds. Tuesday they raised the total by 1½ million dollars, and said that amount was in registered, non-negotiable bonds. They added it would be impossible to determine an exact total immediately.

Speculation that the total figure might soar to 7½ million was based on the theory that five persons carried out the burglary and then split up. On that premise, the speculation was that the 1½ million recovered represented one-fifth of the loot.

There was no substantiation by police of that reasoning.

Coast Guard Led Wild Chase By Nag

EUREKA, Calif. (AP) — A horse named Stranger got out of his pasture here Monday and led police and the Coast Guard on a wild two-hour chase before he was captured.

That's right—the Coast Guard. The horse outmaneuvered a squad car through downtown traffic in this northern California sea-coast city and galloped right into Humboldt Bay.

The police called on the Coast Guard to rescue a drowning horse. A Coast Guard boat put out but reported engine trouble and abandoned the chase.

Stranger wasn't drowning. He was having a big time swimming, resting now and then on mudflats.

Police patrolled the shore for two hours before the horse finally put in and let his owner, garage employee Andy Anderson, lead him home.

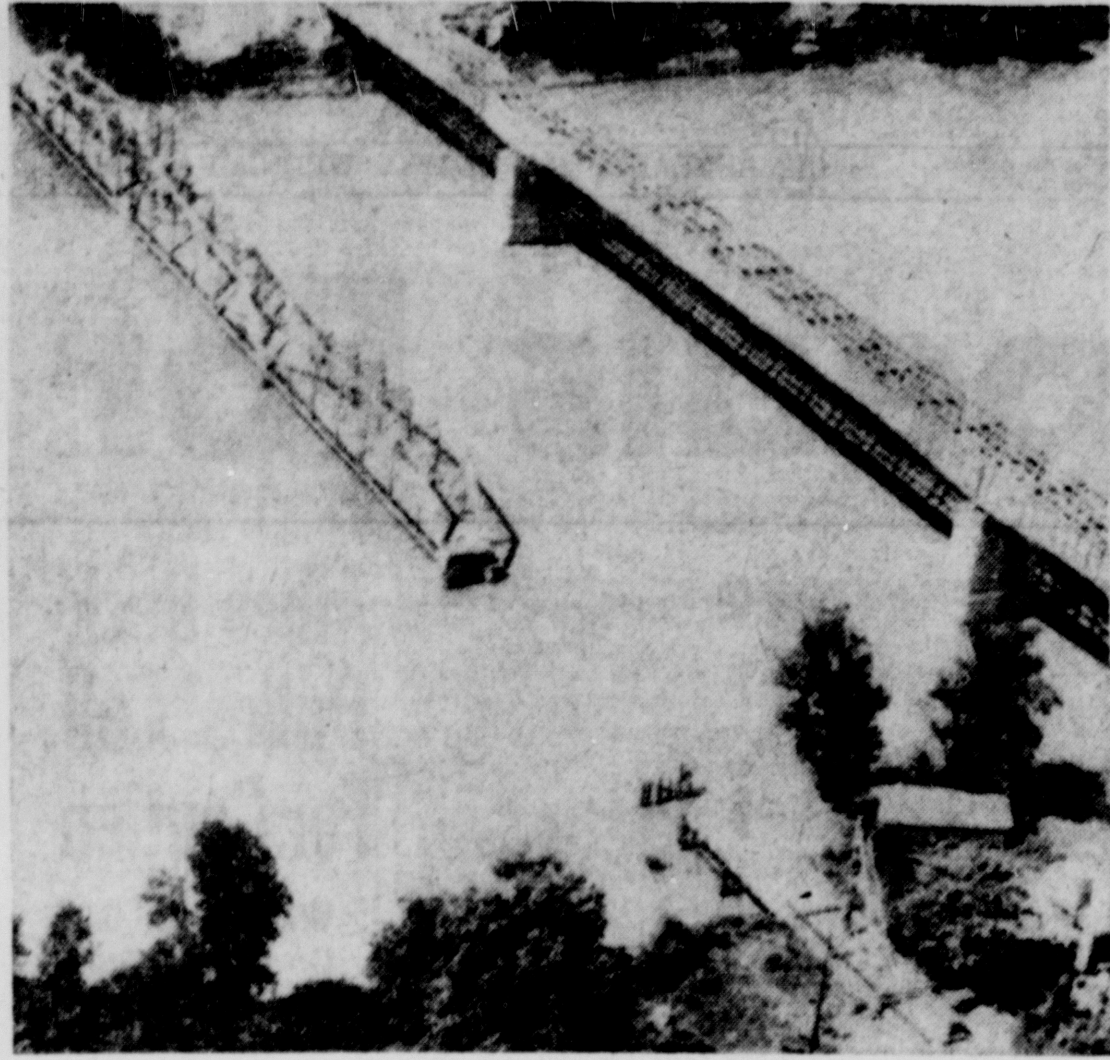

Death March Leader Promoted To Corporal

CHERRY POINT, N. C. (AP) — Matthew C. McKeon, convicted of negligent homicide after six members of his recruit platoon drowned on forced march in 1956, has been promoted to corporal.

McKeon was a staff sergeant platoon leader at Parris Island, S. C., when the six men drowned April 7, 1956, during a night march he ordered.

The 33-year-old McKeon subsequently was convicted by a court-martial board of negligence and drinking in the barracks before the march. He was sentenced to nine months at hard labor, and was reduced in rank to private.

American Mother Of 1958 Reluctant To Give Advice

NEW YORK (AP) — A little South Carolina mother who raised eight children was named "American Mother of 1958" Tuesday.

Mrs. May Roper Coker of Hartsville accepted the designation and an armful of red roses, but protested tearfully:

"I never thought that you should be rewarded for the greatest privilege of life."

Mrs. Daniel A. Poling, president of the American Mothers Committee, Inc., announced the selection of Mrs. Coker at the opening of the annual Mothers' Conference at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Mrs. Coker, 68, will be honored along with mothers from each state at the committee's annual awards luncheon at the Waldorf Friday. She will lead a delegation of mothers to the World's Fair in Brussels next week, and will later meet Queen Juliana of the Netherlands and attend functions in France.

A soft spoken, self-effacing woman, Mrs. Coker was reluctant to give advice on the rearing of children or to tell large cities how to cope with teen-age crime.

"I don't want to be an authority," she told newsmen. "I don't think we have as much juvenile delinquency in the smaller cities. It all comes down to the home, to the family. If we keep a close-knit religious family well loved by everyone in it — well, that's the basis of civilization, isn't it?"

Ike, Mamie Entertain Royalty At Luncheon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President and Mrs. Eisenhower entertained Princess Astrid of Norway and Prince Bertil of Sweden at a White House luncheon Tuesday.

Fifty-seven other guests joined the Eisenhowers in honoring the two. They are in the United States to take part in Minnesota's centennial anniversary of statehood.

Louisiana Flood Tide Nears Crest

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Louisiana residents along the Red River got another break in the weather Tuesday but the rain-swollen river continued to rise menacingly toward crests above flood stage.

For the third straight day there was no rain and none was forecast for Wednesday.

Approximately 150 feet of the Red River Bridge between Grand Ecore and Clarence collapsed.

The span, the second lost in the flood, was located about 8 to 10 miles downstream by highway department officials. Workers were able to tie it to the bank at Luella.

Six Mock Nuclear Bombs Fall On State

Thousands Theoretically Dead In Make-Believe Enemy Air Strike

PIKESVILLE, Md. (AP) — Three make-believe nuclear weapons equal to 21 million tons of TNT fell on the Baltimore-Annapolis area Tuesday, theoretically wiping out Maryland's capital city and virtually leveling the eastern half of Baltimore City with 100 per cent casualties.

Carpet Keep New Look

With proper care wall to wall carpeting will retain the new look. Correct cleaning methods have seemingly been a mystery and controversial even to carpet manufacturers. After much research a product is on the market that cleans and fluffs up beat down carpet paths plus removal of spots thereby maintaining the new look. The textile engineer of a large carpet mill says — "it's the best we've found."

In addition, two mock nuclear weapons fell in Prince Georges County, east-southeast of Washington, and another dropped in lower Montgomery County north-east of Washington.

All were surface bursts which increased the theoretical radiation hazard. Civil Defense officials at CD headquarters in Pikesville, which suffered only partial damage, said westerly winds would carry the make-believe radioactive fallout over the Eastern Shore, which was receiving estimated thousands of evacuees from the western shore.

In addition, heavy bomb strikes in the Ohio Valley of West Virginia and in the Pittsburgh area, will pose serious radiation hazard, on paper, to evacuations from the Baltimore area to Western Maryland later in the day.

A one-megaton bomb fell on the Naval Academy grounds at the mouth of College Creek, obliterating all structures in the state capital and causing virtually 100 per cent casualties.

Many evacuees from Baltimore and northern Anne Arundel County had theoretically reached the Annapolis area before the bomb fell there. These people presumably were caught in the range of 100 per cent casualties.

The two 10-ton megaton bombs, which fell on Baltimore in the Civil Defense exercise — one on U. S. 1 at the northeast city line and the other near the Canton or northern portal of the Harbor Tunnel — combined to destroy all of Baltimore west of Charles Street, and extending through the heavily industrialized area of Eastern Baltimore out to Middle River.

Sparrows Point and the nation's largest tidewater steel plant at Bethlehem Steel were outside the range of complete destruction but suffered heavy damages and casualties.

State Roads Commission engineers at Civil Defense Headquarters near Pikesville, said the Chesapeake Bay Bridge — an escape route to the Eastern Shore — escaped serious damage from the Annapolis blast and was still open to traffic.

However, the Severn River bridges leading into Annapolis and the tri-level interchange which connects Ritchie Highway and Bay Bridge, were heavily damaged, if not knocked down.

The make-believe enemy air strike came from the north and south.

Maryland had about three hours warning of their approach and evacuation was well under way before the bombs fell at about 1:45 p. m.

One nuclear weapon, estimated at 10,000 kilotons, equivalent to 10 million tons of TNT, dropped on southeastern Baltimore (Keith avenue on the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks at the 2200 block of Quail street).

A second simulated enemy plane presumably was knocked down short of downtown Baltimore, its apparent target. Its 10,000 kiloton bomb exploded on U. S. 1—the Bel Air Road—at Glenmore avenue just inside the northeast city line.

A smaller weapon of 1,000 kilotons or one million tons of TNT dropped on the Naval Academy grounds in Annapolis (at the mouth of College Creek), where many residents of Baltimore and northern Anne Arundel County supposedly had been evacuated when the first warning of the simulated enemy attack was received at about 11:15 this morning.

A fourth make-believe bomb, also a 1,000 kiloton weapon, dropped in central Prince Georges County, three-quarters of a mile south of the junction of Maryland 4 and 337.

The Navy's model test basin at Carterrock in lower Montgomery County (and ¼ of a mile northwest of the junction of MacArthur boulevard and Maryland 191) also received a direct hit from a 4,000 kiloton weapon.

Many evacuees in the Washington area and the capital's Maryland suburbs, had reached Leonardtown, about 50 miles to the south, some 30 minutes before the bombs landed in the Washington suburban area.

However, all evacuation was simulated throughout the state as Maryland's part of Operation Alert, a national Civil Defense exercise.

The public took no part except as statistics on paper.

The sixth nuclear weapon, also 1,000 kilotons, was apparently aimed at the Pentagon but fell in central Prince Georges County on Maryland 221, one-half mile north of Westphalia.

The evacuation of the Baltimore metropolitan area started at approximately 11:40 a. m., two hours before the first bomb fell. Prince Georges and Montgomery counties also evacuated all persons within a 10-mile radius of downtown Washington.

At 12:15 p. m., the State Civil Defense plan was theoretically declared in effect by the governor and one hour later State Police reported the paper evacuation proceeding according to plan, although all evacuation routes were heavy with traffic.

Civil Defense sectional headquarters in Salisbury and Hagerstown were receiving evacuees from the central portion of the state.

Cumberland made no evacuation but Civil Defense workers set up facilities to aid other sections of the state.

All the Maryland mock bombs were surface bursts which increased the theoretical radiation hazard. Nearby areas receiving bombs included Chincoteague, Va. on the Delmarva Peninsula, Wilmington, Del., and York, Pa.

Hail, Wind, Rain Give Farmers New Headaches

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Hail and wind combined with rain during the past week to give Maryland farmers more headaches.

Crop reporters at the University of Maryland said Tuesday that most soil around the state was wet. It was described as very wet in Southern Maryland.

Farmers were delayed in getting their seeds into the ground, especially corn. Only 50 per cent of the corn land had been plowed through last week.

Storm damage during the week-end hit Southern Maryland and the Eastern Shore. Tobacco farmer David Hume said about 30 barns had been damaged or destroyed in the area near Hughesville, Charles County. Many of them were filled with tobacco and the expected loss might run between $200,000 and $400,000. Hume said.

In much of Western Maryland, crops were at least three weeks late.

Some orchardists had feared their peach and apple trees would not be fully pollinated. But Ben Rogers, university orchardist at Hancock, said bees have been active, and he figured pollination would be complete.

There was some danger scabs would mar the fruit due to wet weather. Although it had not reached a dangerous point, some farmers were beginning to spray against scabs in spite of the wet weather.

The extension service said that alfalfa has sprouted nicely with some stands in Washington, Frederick and Cecil counties 12 to 14 inches. Clover mixtures were six to eight inches high.

Vegetable planting was moving along in the important Wicomico County area despite the wet weather. Farmers were making progress with lima and snap beans, cantaloupes and watermelons and cucumbers. But only about 20 per cent of the expected tomato plants had been set.

Genetics is the term designating that portion of biology concerned with heredity, variation, development and evolution.

Market Climbs To Fifth Straight High For Year

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market Tuesday climbed to its fifth straight yearly high. Trading was the second heaviest of 1958.

The advance survived a spell of profit taking in mid-afternoon and went on to a strong finish which put closing prices at the best of the session.

Volume soared to 3,110,000 shares compared with 2,670,000 Monday and was second this year to the 3,950,000 shares traded Jan. 16.

Leading stocks rose fractions to around 2 points. Most gains were narrow. The late-buying surge accounted for most of the larger gains.

The ticker tape was late briefly at the opening. Despite 20 minutes time out for a practice civil defense alert, first hour sales amounted to half a million shares. The pace slowed somewhat in the afternoon as traders took profits in the sustained rise which began last week. Turnover quickened in the final hour as prices moved ahead.

Wall Streeters said that both technical considerations and optimism concerning a business upturn were factors in the rise. The big short interest helped such stocks as Lorillard to widen recent gains.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 80 cents to $169.70, a peak for 1958, with the industrials up $1.20, the rails up $1.10, both new highs for the year, and the utilities unchanged.

Make sure that you aren't guilty of any of these habits—you can't seem calmly self-possessed if you are.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Check-Up To Find Fidget Faults

Human nature being what it is, it's difficult to love people for their sterling characters when they have little habits that get on everybody's nerves. Fidgeting is certainly one of them. But it's always someone else who fidgets, not you.

Or is it?

Are you sure you never drum your fingers on a table or a desk? Do you slit paper napkins to shreds? Yes, it does matter, even though it's under the table—you're not serene and you're probably shifting about on the edge of your chair at the same time. Are you constantly rearranging the tilt of your hat or strands of your hair? How about adjusting earrings? Do your heads need frequent restringing?

Do you tap the floor impatiently, flip pumps half off your foot and then on again, or dangle one from your toe while you sit cross-legged? Are you guilty of fussing with belts, scarfs or collars, of biting off lipstick or peeling off nail polish that should be left on?

This list is purposely long to try to include the exact fidget habit you don't know you have until it's called to your attention. No one intends to fidget—the disconcerting habit just happens. And becoming aware of it is the biggest step toward stopping it. I'm sure no woman would deliberately upset the impression of calm self-possession she wants to create and must create to be charming. She would do to great lengths to preserve that impression in any way she knew was necessary. And the way may be just the simple one of ceasing to make small, useless, fussy and unbecoming gestures. Don't be too sure now that you haven't fidget faults. Check yourself for the next few days and see.

Lovely Contours For Summer

A glimpse of the spare and figure-revealing shorts and swim suits that will appear in the summer collections is all you'd need to drive you to work on your thigh contours.

To reduce thighs: Lie on the floor on your right side. Rest your head on your right arm and place your left hand flat on the floor in front of your chest. Bend both knees up sharply to almost touch your chest. Without letting the right thigh leave the floor, swing your legs straight forward to form a right angle with your torso. Then swing them around and down until they are aligned with your spine. Return your legs to chest position. Make all these motions continuous and brisk so that it seems you can actually feel the flesh being massaged away.

Start with 10 times a day for each side and work up to 40. As you increase, alternate sides after each count of 10.

To build up too-slim thighs or contour shapeless ones: Stand with your feet astride and the toes pointed slightly outward. Rise up on your toes and then slowly squat down to the floor.

spreading your knees wide apart as you do so. Slowly rise until you are again standing on your toes. Relax and repeat five times. Increase your performance to 25 times daily as it becomes easy for you. Always work very slowly and deliberately when performing this routine.

SUMMERIZING YOUR BEAUTY. For figure loveliness, grace, and sparkling vitality, follow the 30-day wonder program outlined in SUMMERIZING YOUR BEAUTY. For a copy of the program write to SECRETS OF CHARM, in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10c (in coin) and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

GET ON THE VODKA WAGON—WITH SMIRNOFF

There's no vodka like Smirnoff! The Vodka of Vodka is smooth and flawless. It blends with any mixer, fruit juice or soft drink... loses itself completely in just about anything that pours! That's why Smirnoff lets you vary your drinks—without mixing your liquors. From cocktail to nightcap, you can stay with Smirnoff all evening long. For instance:

VODKA MARTINI. Smirnoff makes the world's smoothest, driest Dry Martini. Just use it instead of gin—but follow your usual martini proportions.

BLOODY MARY. 1 jigger Smirnoff to 2 of tomato juice, squeeze of lemon, dash of Worcestershire Sauce, pinch of salt and pepper. Shake with ice. Strain in glass.

VODKA & TONIC. Smirnoff has no liquor taste—so it never "takes over" in your drink. You'll find it leaves the tonic's flavor freshened—but unchanged!

VODKA HIGHBALL. For a tall, delicious cooler, add Smirnoff to ginger ale—or any other mixer. But also be inventive. Dream up your own Smirnoff drink!

Grasshoppers Invade Arizona

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Millions of hungry grasshoppers are swarming from desert breeding places into the lush irrigated farming areas of Arizona.

Central Arizona farmers can't remember seeing so many before. The invasion has led Gov. Ernest McFarland to declare a state of emergency.

Crop dusters Monday began spraying a two-mile strip between Florence and Maricopa, a distance of 100 miles.

W. T. Mendenhall, state entomologist, said they hope to create a barrier that will keep the hoppers in the desert.

Swarms of grasshoppers descended on Tucson Sunday, and sidewalks became so slippery pedestrians were forced to walk in the roadways away from the bright lights in store windows.

Pilots flying from Phoenix to Tucson over the weekend reported sighting clouds of the insects at 5,000 feet. One such flight was dense enough to set off Air Defense Command alarms.

Demand By Arab Prince Puts Britain On Spot

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON (AP) — A desert prince from a hot spot in the Middle East urged Monday that Arab tribes in Britain's Aden protectorate be given rights to choose their own political future. The demand poses a vital problem for Britain, anxious to hold her tenuous position in oil-rich Arabia.

Sir Ali Abdul Karim, 35, Sultan of Lahej, declared in an interview:

"Peace in southern Arabia can be secured only if Britain and Yemen agree about the future status of the Aden territories. The quick development of Arab nationalist aspirations among the ordinary people of the area makes me think that self-determination will provide the only final answer. I am sure three-quarters of the 600,000 people of the area, and most of their rulers, would support this idea."

Karim said he hopes to win withdrawal of British troops from his land.

The Sultan rules an arid, cotton-producing territory between Aden colony to the south and Yemen to the north. He and his 100,000 turbaned men and veiled women live under the protection of the British flag.

Under a 1952 treaty the Sultan and his successors pay eternal allegiance to Queen Elizabeth and in return the British recognize their authority in Lahej. The handsome Egyptian-educated ruler is on a private visit to London. Lahej is one of 19 sultanates, petty states and sheikhdoms comprising the protectorates of western Aden. It is a sort of buffer territory between Aden and Yemen, now linked with President Nasser's United Arab Republic.

Yemen, where Soviet bloc technicians or experts are building roads and ports, claims most of the British-protected Aden territories and is campaigning for them with shot and shell supplied by the Soviets and her friends. "Lahej has long been a place of peace," said the Sultan, "but today our peace is threatened. On the one side we, and the protectorates around us, have our treaties with Britain. On the other side, Yemen wants to take over these territories. There is only one possible way to settle this."

"Britain and Yemen must come to an agreement."

For Britain the issues are vital. Lahej is ripe to set an infectious political mood that could sweep all Aden. And Aden is Britain's main forward land base for the defense of her vast Middle East oil interests.

British troops last week marched into Lahej to round up three Arab advisers of the Sultan, accused of "disrupting the good relations between Her Majesty's government and the rulers and peoples of the Aden protectorates."

Karim said he had flown to London to protest:

"Firstly, against the order to arrest the three men who are my friends and innocent of conspiracy."

"And secondly, against the presence of British troops in Lahej where they are not wanted and have no treaty rights to be."

Karim also stressed these points:

1. Right now he has not the slightest idea of scrapping his treaty or renouncing his traditional friendship with Britain — to do so would be "crazy."

2. Any settlement for the area must take account of what he called Britain's legitimate interests.

3. Neither Nasser's U.A.R. nor Yemen have invited him to join with them and if they did so he would not contemplate it at this time because "Britain's protection is the only protection we have."

Nobelium 102 Called Heaviest Known Element

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP) — A nuclear scientist reported Monday the definite discovery of nobelium, described as the heaviest element on record.

At the same time, Dr. Albert Ghiorso and his University of California associates challenged the findings of another group of scientists which last year said it did approximately the same thing.

Dr. Ghiorso told a conference on reactions between heavy nuclei that nobelium, No. 102 in the roster of chemical elements, was produced April 18 in an atom smash-up on the California campus.

Nobelium is the 10th element heavier than uranium to be made by man. Uranium, No. 92 on the element list, is the heaviest element found in nature.

Ghiorso said he and his California associates, including Nobel Prize winner Glenn T. Seaborg, used curium 246 as the basic material for producing the new substance.

Last July an international team of researchers said they observed small amounts of element 102 in tests at the Nobel Institute of Physics at Stockholm.

Ghiorso said the California group had attempted unsuccessfully to produce nobelium by duplicating the Stockholm experiment.

He added that the attempts to produce nobelium 102 by the Stockholm procedure were done carefully and repeated many times, but without success.

At Chicago, a physicist who took part in the Stockholm test said he hadn't seen information on the California process but added: "Our own data looks good."

Dr. Paul Field of the Argonne National Laboratory staff said, "Our identification was made by direct separation of the element. Apparently the Berkeley team observed only the daughter—the decay element. There is some discrepancy. We'll try to determine where it lies."

The Atomic Energy Commission's Oak Ridge National Laboratory is sponsor of the conference here.

Hitler's Ambassador To Vichy Crash Victim

DUSSELDORF, Germany (AP) — Otto Abetz, Nazi ambassador to the French war-time Vichy government, and his French-born wife were killed in a car crash Monday. Abetz was 55.

The crash was on the super-highway near Langenfeld. Police said the Volkswagen driven by Mrs. Abetz collided head-on with another car. Abetz burned to death inside the car and his wife was hurled onto the road.

No Late Filers For State Office

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Monday's constitutional deadline passed with no independents having filed for statewide or congressional office in Maryland's general election this year.

This was the last day for filing by petition and ballots will be made up for the general election from the Republican and Democratic primaries to be held May 20.

Technically, an independent could still get in his petition by midnight, but Secretary of State Claude B. Hellman said none had been received by 5 p. m. when the office closed and none was expected.

An independent candidate for statewide office must present a petition signed by 5,000 registered voters and one for Congress must have 1,500 signatures.

Atom Test Protest

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Frank Allaun, a Laborite member of Parliament, says up to 100,000 Britons will take part in a march on government offices in London next month to demand a halt in nuclear tests. The date, he said, likely will be June 8 or June 29.

Asphalt, Crushed Stone Bids Are Due By May 27

Bids for emulsified asphalt and crushed stone for use by the Allegany County Roads Department will be received by the Board of County Commissioners until 10:30 a. m. Tuesday, May 27, according to James G. Stevenson, clerk to the commissioners.

County Roads Supervisor J. Walker Chapman presented the specifications yesterday morning and they were checked by Attorney Gorman E. Getty.

Chapman told the board that a few days ago he received a call from a "Mr. Smith," who represented himself as being with an oil company interested in when the asphalt bids would be advertised. Chapman said a later check with the firm revealed that no such person was connected with the business. Chapman said he'd like for the person involved to appear before the board to explain his actions.

The county this year will purchase a total of 24,000 tons of crushed stone. Half of the stone will be crusher run, which is at least 50 per cent limestone not to exceed one inch.

The balance of the stone will be Grades 2, 3 and 4 to meet State Roads Commission specifications. The bids will include the delivery price to the various job sites in the county, delivery price to stockpiles and also the price for the stone at the plant and hauled on county trucks.

This year the county is buying 2,000 tons more crusher run and also 2,000 tons more of the three grades than they did last year.

The emulsified asphalt must meet State Roads Commission specifications. A total of 200,000 gallons will be purchased by the county. The bids ask the price on delivery to job sites in 3,000 gallon lots.

Broiling or grilling is cooking food on a broiler or gridiron over hot coals or under or over a gas or electric unit.

Board Receives Many Requests For Road Work

A big portion of the meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday was taken up with problems concerning roads.

L. W. Brown, 631 National Highway, LaVale, and James Alfred Avirett, local attorney, appeared concerning surface water drainage off Ren Roy and First Street in LaVale. Both men said installation of a drainage pipe would correct the situation. They said the water drains onto property owned by Avirett.

The roadway also becomes muddy and during the summer months the water which lies in a field presents a hazard due to mosquitoes. J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, inspected the situation with the two men and will report back to the commissioners.

Three residents of Vocke Drive appeared before the board to request assistance in having crusher run stone placed on the roadway. The road runs off Vocke Drive, a state highway.

The men, C. M. Diehl, Ralph Delligatti and J. H. Walburn, said they have received estimates from private contractors of $500 for grading and drainage of the roadway and $200 for hauling and spreading the crusher run stone. About 250 tons would be needed.

The men said it is impossible to give the necessary rights of way on the roadway as some of the homes have been built too close to the road line to allow for a 30-foot width. The men will confer with Chapman to see what can be worked out.

J. O. Curry, 422 Georges Creek Boulevard, LaVale, appeared before the board to ask for repairs to that roadway. He said the road is about 400 feet long and has some large "chuck holes." The matter was referred to Chapman.

Lon Cook, Celanese Boulevard, appeared before the board to ask that a load of crusher run stone be provided for the roadway. He said he would haul and spread the stone. The board granted his request.

John R. Greise appeared before the board to ask that eight to 10 tons of crusher run stone be provided for Miller Street in Bowman's Addition. His request was granted. He will haul and spread the stone.

Ross F. Shaw, Oldtown, wrote the board that there are "chuck holes" on the main thoroughfares and requested repairs. He also asks that ditches be cleaned in the community.

Mrs. J. B. Stafford, Wildcat Hollow Road off Williams Road, phoned the board that repairs are needed on that roadway. Both requests were turned over to Chapman.

Potomac River Flow Is Reported High During April

During April the flow of the Potomac River at Wiley Ford gauge was 4,080 cubic feet per second (2,637 million gallons per day).

This is 182 per cent of the 28-year April average. The daily flow averaged between 12,600 cubic feet per second (8,144 million gallons on April 7 to 1,260 cubic feet per second (814,000,000 gallons) on April 26.

A seasonal increase in storage in Savage River Dam caused an average decrease of 163 cubic feet per second (105,000,000 gallons) or four per cent of the flow in the river at Cumberland. The reservoir was filled April 28.

Total precipitation in Cumberland was 3.55 inches, which is .67 of an inch above the April average. The average daily temperature was 53.7 degrees, which was 1.6 degrees above normal. A trace of snow was recorded during April.

Brucellosis Rate Lower In County

The compulsory blood testing program of cattle in Allegany County, in which eradication of brucellosis was the aim, resulted in the award of a certificate showing this county is a modified brucellosis free area for a three-year period.

Dr. R. B. Shillinger, Hagerstown, the veterinarian in charge of the program in Allegany and Garrett counties for the Livestock Sanitary Service of the Maryland State Board of Agriculture, presented the certificate to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners today.

The veterinarian said that to qualify as a modified certified area, all cattle in a county must be tested within an 18-month period. The rate of infection must not exceed one per cent of all cattle tested and the herd infection must be less than five per cent.

Allegany County's infection rate was well below the minimum standards required. Dr. Shillinger told the commissioners. Only 43 reactors were found in the 25 herds tested during the time the county was under the area test.

There were 5,760 cattle tested which represents about 50 per cent of the cattle population of Allegany County. They were located on 706 farms and included cows, bulls, vaccinated heifers over two years old and unvaccinated animals over one year old. Steers are not required to be blood tested. The last animal was tested November 27, 1957.

In addition to the above, it is estimated there are 3,220 heifers and calves under two years of age and 2,350 steers and bull calves making an estimated 11,330 cattle in Allegany County. Dr. Shillinger pointed out.

All cattle which reacted (infected animals) were tagged, branded and sent to U. S. Department of Agriculture inspected plants and slaughtered immediately. All trucks hauling reactors and premises were cleaned and disinfected.

Brucellosis, a microscopic bacteria, causes Bang's disease in cattle and undulant fever in humans. The disease spreads from animal to animal. From a public health standpoint, Dr. Shillinger said, elimination of the disease in cattle is important because infection may spread to people who drink raw or unpasteurized milk.

PTA Council Has Election Of Officers

Mrs. George Buckalew of Frostburg, was elected president of the Allegany County Council of Parents and Teachers Monday at a meeting at Oldtown School.

Approximately 140 attended the session at which Mrs. Lawrence Shafferman, retiring president, presided.

Other officers named are Mrs. James Kave, Cumberland, first vice president; Mrs. Wanda Stevens, Westernport, second vice president; Mrs. Lawrence Kyle, Flintstone, recording secretary; Mrs. James Snelson, Midland, corresponding secretary; and James Wilson, Cumberland, re-elected treasurer.

Dr. Adam Baer of Frostburg, president of District 1 of the Maryland Congress of PTA, was installing officer.

A girls' octet from Oldtown High School directed by Mrs. Carole Reith, sang several selections.

Revised by-laws presented by Mrs. Adam Baer were accepted by the group and Mrs. Benjamin Lewis, retiring vice president, announced July 14-15 as dates for the summer conference at College Park.

Board Is Thanked By Little League

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners received a letter of thanks yesterday from the Lonaconing Little League for the grading of the baseball field in that community.

Charles Clise, league secretary, said the season for the Little Leaguers opens June 2 and teams will play Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. He invited the commissioners to attend any of the games when they are in that vicinity.

Mesopotamia is the name applied to the areas between the Euphrates and the Tigris rivers. Iraq is the Arab name for this territory.

PE To Erect South End Service Center

A contract for erecting a service center has been awarded by the Potomac Edison Company to the John I. Vandegrift Company. Cost is estimated in excess of $300,000, according to Garland L. Johnston, PE district manager.

The building will be erected in an area bounded by West Memorial Avenue, Fourth Street and Somerville Avenue.

Construction of the two-building unit is expected to get under way shortly and indications are that the facility will be completed by late November.

Of modern design, fire-resistant construction and brick exterior, this service center will provide greater convenience for local PE customers and a more centralized, efficient operational center for utility functions.

An unusual electric heating and cooling system will be installed in the buildings. A combination system employing heat pumps and resistance type baseboards and unit heaters will be installed throughout the center. The heat pumps will provide both heating and cooling for the office and working areas.

Covering more than 40,000 square feet, the center will provide facilities for the company's service, line and meter departments, storeroom, and district engineering department. There will be crew quarters for linemen, complete servicing facilities and carparks for automotive equipment.

Also included in the plans is a large parking area for customers', employees' and company vehicles.

Johnston said that the new center will consolidate the service and line facilities presently located on Union and Centre streets. The merchandise store and accounting offices of the local utility will remain on Liberty Street and the company's local headquarters will still be on Union Street.

The layout of the unit is unique in the arrangement of the rooms and passage ways for the easy movement and handling of large appliances and other bulky materials. The final design for the center was attained only after considerable study and consultation and approval by leading architectural engineers.

Metropolitan Office To Mark Anniversary

The Cumberland office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company will be closed this afternoon in celebration of the company's 90th year of operation.

George Doub Quoted In Time Article

The cover article in the current issue of Time magazine on the United States' observance of Law Day includes a quotation by a Cumberland native.

George Cochran Doub, son of the late Judge Albert A. Doub, who now is an assistant United States Attorney General, is the Cumberland native quoted. He is a brother of Albert A. Doub, local attorney, who lives at 748 Washington Street.

Mr. Doub was quoted on the fact that many countries have the same basic common values. He was remarking on his experience handling U.S. government litigation in the courts of Western Europe. "We find that each legal principle we know seems available in the same or other terms in the civil law countries," says Mr. Doub. "And so, may I suggest that no country has a monopoly upon right or equity, and that the instinct of justice is universal?"

Pa. Grand Jury Indicts 22

The grand jury of the May term of Somerset County (Pa.) Circuit Court, which convened Monday morning, has returned 22 indictments.

Frank A. Orban Jr., prosecuting attorney of the county, said there were 25 presentments and 22 true bills returned by the jurors.

He said criminal trials will open Monday, May 19. Mr. Orban pointed out that no major crimes were among the 22 indictments placed on the open docket.

The prosecuting attorney said four strip mining operators were indicted in violations of the bituminous open pit strip mining conservation act effective in Pennsylvania since the early 1940's. The state, he said, is putting a drive on in enforcing the law. Many operators have been failing to register and post necessary bond for stripping coal from the land.

He said the operators are required to register and post $3,000 for land areas up to 10 acres and $500 for each acre above that number.

Also included in the indictments is an assault and battery case.

Two Somerset Men Fatally Injured

Two Somerset County, Pa., men were killed instantly Saturday night when their car hit a cinder pile and rolled over on Route 31, two miles west of Mount Pleasant, Pa.

Police said Speicher was apparently driving the sedan which was traveling west on the highway. The car, police said, hit the cinder pile and the driver lost control. Both men were thrown from the vehicle.

Police said Speicher died of shock, a broken neck and fractured skull. Pucci died of shock and hemorrhage, a coroner said.

Swan Meadow School Project Is Under Way

OAKLAND—Work on the new Swan Meadow school was started recently by parents and children of the school.

Willard L. Hawkins, superintendent of schools, said this was the only school in the county where the parents bargained with the school board to do the work if funds were made available for materials. The board obtained $15,000 from the county commissioners for materials.

Hawkins said the board estimated that this had meant a savings to the county of approximately another $15,000 in donated labor. He pointed out the present Swan Meadow School had deteriorated beyond use or repair for future school purposes.

Hawkins also pointed out that contrary to the thinking of some, Swan Meadow was not a parochial school even though at present it houses all Amish children. He said the school was run entirely under supervision and control of the Board of Education with selection of teachers and curriculum controlled by the board just as in other public schools. A second teacher was added to the school last fall in anticipation of increased enrollment.

Upon completion of the building, title to the property will be deeded to the school board. It was anticipated that the building would be ready for occupancy when school opens in September. The building will include two classrooms, full basement, lavatory and storage facilities.

FSTC Reports Huge Interest In Enrollment

Summer Session Classes Assured

FROSTBURG—In spite of the inclement weather last Saturday, Dean Ivan C. Diehl of the State Teachers College declared that the advance registration for both graduate and undergraduate work for the 1958 summer session was a huge success.

The registration was purposely scheduled on the morning of Alumni Day so that returning alumni could confer with instructors and select courses for the summer as well as attend the festivities planned for the remainder of the day, which began with a noon luncheon.

Fifty students registered in the graduate program, while twenty-three students registered in the undergraduate program.

Due to the limited size of classes in the graduate program, the two sections of the required course "Current Trends in Curriculum" showed a rapidly rising enrollment early in the morning. Section B, which meets from 10:50 a.m. to 12:10 p.m., was closed to registration by mid-morning. At present, there is place for but four more students in Section A, which meets from 8 to 9:20 a.m. These remaining places will be filled on the basis of first come, first served.

In view of the disastrous weather on Saturday and the long distance to be traveled by a great number who have shown an interest in the 1958 summer session at Frostburg, Dean Diehl has prepared a set of regulations governing registrations by mail. Two groups of students who will be permitted to register in advance by this means are, (1)—Those who have been graduated from the State Teachers College and who have transcripts of work taken elsewhere sent directly to the registrar in charge of admissions, (2)—Those students who have earned a Bachelor's Degree elsewhere in either elementary or junior high school education.

Others not fitting into these categories may write for an appointment with Miss Elisabeth Hitchens, registrar in charge of admissions. They may register in person or by mail following their conferences. Prospective students may obtain further information by writing or calling Dean Ivan C. Diehl, coordinator of the graduate program, State Teachers College, Frostburg, Md.

Recruitment Program At Lonaconing Puts Blood Quota Over Top

113 Pints Collected By Red Cross Unit

LONACONING — Residents of the Lonaconing area responded to a special appeal for blood donors at the Red Cross Bloodmobile yesterday and turned in the second highest total ever contributed here.

A total of 113 pints against a local quota of 100 pints was collected. This is second only to the 131 pints collected six years ago on the first local visit of the mobile unit.

Full credit for the outstanding success of yesterday's blood collection is given to a highly responsive spirit on the part of the citizenry, following a recruitment program sponsored by the Lonaconing Rotary Club. Rev. Leslee Schwindt, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church and Edward McPartland, local postmaster were recruitment chairmen for the Rotarians. Harry T. Warnick, Rotary president expressed his thanks to the two men and their committee of assistants, who did the full job of recruiting donors.

Miss Nellie Sloan, branch chairman of the Red Cross here said everyone who helped did an excellent service and shows that the need for blood under the Red Cross program is fully understood and appreciated here. She expressed her gratitude and also that of the Red Cross Chapter.

There were 114 persons scheduled to give blood. Of this number 82 appeared, despite wet, rainy and uncomfortable weather.

In addition there were 55 volunteer walk-ins. A total of 38 persons gave blood for the first time, including three students from Valley High School, Kenneth Grandstaff, Lionel Baker and Donald Timney.

Twenty-one volunteer donors said they were replacing blood received from the Red Cross blood bank by close relatives or friends. Physicians rejected 24 persons due to colds, iron deficiency or other disabilities.

Cecil Metz of Barton, a regular donor started on his second gallon; and Mrs. Marian Daley of Lonaconing started on her third gallon.

Rev. Schwindt said much of the success was due to the intensive recruitment campaign conducted as a community-wide effort, using personal contact, individual solicitation by telephone and direct mail. He said, too, that considerable credit must be given to the volunteers who formed a transportation corps and provided cars for donors.

Those who drove cars on a regular, organized basis, hauling donors from and to their homes included besides Rev. Schwindt and Mr. McPartland, were Tim and Charles Connor, Rev. Paul Poland and Mrs. Shirley Major.

This feature, untied here before, brought in volunteer donors who had been scheduled, who otherwise would not have appeared due to the weather, Fr. Schwindt suggested.

He and Mr. McPartland expressed their appreciation to all who helped and all who donated. The collection center was set up in the home of Alvin C. Neat Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Captain Henry E. Wilt, commanding officer of the local unit, stated that this years journey to field training will be by government vehicle motor convoy. Wilt made note of pertinent information concerning the field training area.

Camp Breckinridge is located in Western Kentucky, on land owned by the federal government, and covers 35,893 acres. The total cost of acquiring this land was $38,016.183. Mayor To Seek Conference On Street Access Mayor Roy W. Eves said he hopes today to arrange a conference leading to a satisfactory agreement with the Western Maryland Railway on access to Canal Street for the People's Furniture Store.

The street was closed, from a point 60 feet south of Baltimore Street by an ordinance adopted by the Mayor and Council Monday. The action clears the way for a 100-car parking lot on South Mechanic Street which the railway will lease for commercial operation.

Mayor Eves said he will attempt today to arrange a meeting between representatives of the railway and the store owned by Joseph H. Reinhart at the intersection of Baltimore and Canal Streets.

The mayor said he hopes a satisfactory agreement on access can be reached.

Meanwhile the city has appointed commissioners to assess benefits or award damages to property owners who may be affected by the closing of the street. They are C. Glenn Watson, James Perrin and Howard M. Spiker.

The commissioners, according to the ordinance, must give 10 days notice of their meeting to affected property owners.

The cucumber is believed to have originated in northern India. It is widely cultivated for its fruit.

Sheriff Mott was en route to Burlington when he came across the scene.

Investigating with Corporal Moody is Donald C. Hott, prosecuting attorney of Mineral County.

Autopsy Performed
The woman's body was taken to Memorial Hospital here last night and an autopsy was being performed by Dr. Skitarelic.

Navy Recruiting Station Wins Service Award

National recognition for outstanding achievement in obtaining Navy enlistments has been granted the Cumberland Navy Recruiting Station, according to Chief Petty Officer T. L. Scarborough, in charge of local recruiting.

The recognition, which came in the form of a "Navy Recruiting Station of the Month" certificate, was signed by Captain M. J. Luosey, director of Navy Recruiting in Washington, and was presented to the local Navy recruiters by Lieutenant Commander V. Lopresti, officer in charge of Navy recruiting for the Baltimore area.

The awards were based on recruiting results obtained by the local Navy recruiters during the month of February, when a total of 15 enlistments were made, as opposed to an assigned quota of 13. Other factors which are given consideration in the determination of "Navy Recruiting Station of the Month" citations are a high and efficient level of administrative procedures and publicity work.

In addition to Chief Scarborough, other recruiters at the local Navy Recruiting Station include Petty Officers, R. P. Johnson, Coy E. Turner, and Ronald Heins.

"The position of state central committeeman is not a public office. It is merely an office of intra-party government."

The governor went on to say, "There are public offices, of course, in which the incumbents should not enter their names in the election lists for other offices. This is particularly true of the judiciary at all levels. Resignation should precede any such candidacies."

"But certainly this is not true of a supervisor of elections seeking a post of authority within his own party. He is and should be an open and active stalwart of his party."

Said Mr. Hinebaugh and Mr. Bond: "We have no intention of resigning. The governor has appointed us and we will serve until our terms expire next year, or until he asks us to resign."

Mr. Hinebaugh added, "We feel the governor's statement should settle the controversy, and we intend to abide by it and stay on the board."

Hanlin Picks Up 156 County Dogs

Burza Hanlin, dog warden for the western half of Allegany County, submitted a report to the Board of County Commissioners yesterday showing that he made 72 trips during the month of April and picked up 156 dogs.

The 72 trips for Mr. Hanlin, who lives in Westernport, included 23 to Frostburg, 15 to Lonaconing, four to Midland, six to Eckhart, six to Carlos, four to Mill Run Road, four to McCoole, two to Vale Summit Road and eight to the pound.

Mr. Hanlin also answered seven calls about dog bites and two to McCoole Road concerning dogs killing deer.

The warden concluded his report with a statement that he picked up 156 dogs and sold 120 tags in the month.

Driver Is Given 90-Day Sentence

Paul Ellsworth Wiley, 34, of rear 454 Walnut Street, was sentenced to 90 days in Allegany County Jail in lieu of $200 in fines and costs on two motor vehicle violations yesterday.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick imposed a $150 fine and costs on Wiley on one charge and another $50 and costs on a second driving charge. The motorist was given 60 days in jail on the first charge and 30 days on the second count when he was unable to pay the levies.

Officers Wilbur E. Shank and James Swann arrested Wiley after the latter's car collided with a parked automobile on Frederick Street early yesterday morning.

Relativity And Beyond

Ever since Albert Einstein announced some preliminary conclusions on his "unified field theory" and presented an equation embodying them, other theoretical mathematicians have been trying to spin some substance around the hypothesis.

Now two physicists have come up with formulas that they believe will do the job. Neither is quite sure, though, for the whole field is one in which there is little observed phenomena to use as proof.

The unified field theory is the idea that all laws of nature—gravity, light, magnetism, energy and mass—are tied together in one overall "law," the key to which can be discovered.

Prof. Werner Heisenberg of Berlin says his formula is based on three measurements of modern physics and some assumptions about the symmetry of the universe that date back to Plato. The three units are:

1. The "quantum of action" that was discovered in 1900 by physicist Max Planck.
2. The velocity of light.
3. A measurement that would be a length of such proportions as are found inside the atom, for example the diameter of one simple nucleus.

Dr. John J. Grebe, director of nuclear research for Dow Chemical Co., offers what he calls a "periodic table of fundamental particles." In effect, what he has tried to do is to arrange "anti-matter" particles such as positrons in a system that might be said to correspond to the same in matter.

All of this is very deep and technical. However, both new formulas are new steps along the path toward understanding the universe about us. These men are truly out on the frontier of the human mind in trying to fathom nature's best-hidden secrets.

These Days

Organizations For Crime

The New York City Youth Board has issued a very fancifully arranged brochure entitled, "Teenage Gangs." After you read it, you are bound to feel great sympathy with the gangs and wonder why those who are murdered by the juvenile gangsters are unwilling to be killed for the good of society.

What is clear from the pamphlet is that no moral criteria enter into the thinking of those who prepared it and who are designated to look after the hoodlums. Let me quote a paragraph:

"... People were and are concerned about any group, whether called a 'gang' or not, when that group indulges in activities which are directed against the whole community or against the principles or values on which that community is based. Such activities are called, quite simply, 'anti-social.'"

What are the activities which are called "quite simply, 'anti-social' "? They include murder, narcotics pushing, the raping of juveniles, impairing the morals of the young, mayhem, rioting and all sorts of crimes. These are called "quite simply, anti-social." And the brochure goes on to give the impression that it is rather normal for teenagers to be anti-social. In fact, after reading this pamphlet issued by the City of New York, I could not help but reach the conclusion that it is normal for a child to be anti-social and that those children who behave themselves and live decent lives are abnormal. So the Youth Board starts with the following premise:

"We know, for instance, that for all adolescents—youthsters in their teens—this is a time of normal physical and psychological growth and change. We know that as a part of this normal growing up process, it is important for a teenager to be a member of a group of young people his own age—his peers. Such close group associations are, in fact, one of the most basic and natural needs of the teenager... it helps him bridge that gap between childhood and adulthood... it offers him many opportunities for positive growth and development."

So, the philosophers of the Youth Board do not go to the heart of the issue, which is, that when young people live without morality, they become like beasts. Instead, they take the easier course of blaming it on the twentieth century, international tensions, the cold war, but not on Communism or secularism. The pamphlet says:

"Youngsters belonging to anti-social gangs not only have the general world insecurity to face but must put up with other problems as well."

When Serra shot Ramos, he was undoubtedly thinking of general world insecurity! Maybe, he had in mind Nasser's visit to Khrushchev and possibly the visit of the American bankers to Nasser! How silly can these social workers be!

As I read this pamphlet, paid for by the taxpayer who is afraid, in New York, to walk through the city parks lest hoodlums pounce upon him and steal his overcoat, or, as actually happened to a young lady, get stabbed without a word being spoken just because the stabber likes to stab. I wonder what kind of a world the social worker lives in. For instance, mark the following paragraph:

"Police action against gang violence has often been absolutely necessary for the protection of the community. But because the police's function has been primarily to protect the community, not to rehabilitate the gang, this approach was in the long run unproductive in modifying gang activity or in eliminating the problem."

So a social worker takes a gangster, Serra, out for a ride, feeds him hot dogs and soda pop, takes him to a candy store where Serra takes out a loaded gun and shoots a boy called Ramos and the social worker says that whereas he was in this tiny candy store, he did not actually see the shooting. In a word, the Youth Board accepts the gangster's code that it will not squeal to the police, even when murder is committed.

It would seem that an old-fashioned cop, with a strong leaded night-stick and a tough attitude toward life, would do these hardened children more good than all the slapping-on-the-wrist they get from the soft-spoken, kindly intentioned, soda-pop drinking social workers who belong to the Youth Board.

Maybe That Will Make Him Move

The Judicial Activities Of The 'Law Clerks'

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Attorney General William P. Rogers has his baseball metaphors mixed up. He says the bills being considered in Congress to curb the excesses of the Supreme Court are the result of the same sort of outcry heard from spectators at a baseball game who shout, "Kill the umpire!"

But what the critics of the Supreme Court really want is for the "umpire" to stick to his job of watching the ball and abiding by the rules. They don't think it's the umpire's duty to make new rules or to tell the manager of the club, for instance, just when he can put in a different pitcher. They don't like to see an umpire deciding that, when a ball drops outside the foul line, it is a foul for one team but, when the other team hits the ball into exactly the same spot, it isn't a foul at all. In other words, the fans don't want to see the umpire moving the foul line around to suit himself.

That's essentially what the dispute is about as the Supreme Court ignores the rules of the game repeatedly and makes up its own rules that are then proclaimed as binding on everybody—even to the point of telling Congress what questions may be asked in formal hearings through which its committees seek to get information to guide them in writing new laws.

Also, in a baseball game, everybody knows who the umpire is. He appears in full uniform and he has a rule book to go by. In the Supreme Court's work, it isn't always possible to know who the umpire happens to be.

Thus every Justice has two law clerks, and the Chief Justice has four. These assistants don't have to be confirmed by the Senate. They are not supposed to be judges. Yet they perform some of the work of the Supreme Court Justices, especially in connection with what are known as "writs of certiorari." These are petitions to the Supreme Court to grant an appeal from the lower courts. If the writ is denied, there's no appeal. It means a final judicial decision so far as the citizen is concerned. The Justice himself signs the denial of the writ, but the basic judgment which has preceded it often comes from a young law clerk, imbued with all sorts of ideas as to the role of the Supreme Court in the nation today.

Just a week ago, the "New York Times," in its Sunday magazine, had an article by a former law clerk to a Supreme Court Justice who discussed very frankly the role played by the law clerks, many of whom come from the law schools imbued with the viewpoint of the so-called "intellectuals." The article said:

"Law clerks, then, generally assist their respective Justices in searching the law books and other sources for materials relevant to the decision of cases before the court. . . .

"The clerks often present the fruits of their searches to their Justices along with their recommendations. They go over drafts of opinions and may suggest changes. They tend to see a lot of their Justices, and talk a great deal with them. And the talk is mostly about law and cases. . . .

"What is more important, the way the Justice's mind was always open. There was always someone—fresh from the immersion in ideas that marks a law-school and law-review career—poised at the Justice's elbow, willing and able to do intellectual combat."

In baseball, anybody making decisions on the field of play must appear in uniform as an umpire and has to be seen. There are no invisible umpires.

Certainly when a lawyer has argued his case and submitted it to the Supreme Court Justices, he ought to have a right of rebuttal against any new points

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

We accuse women of disloyalty to their star-spangled finance companies. In twelve cases out of a dozen it's the gals who are buying those small foreign cars.

They're easy to handle and take up less space than a flea in a dog fight.

But can women park 'em easier? The answer in one word is not on your debt-saddled life.

The ladies can pile up baby carriages in hallways and start a traffic jam in supermarket wire baskets. They can tool an English tea-table during the crumpet rush hour. They can push a baby grand piano through a set of folding doors.

But because of a bewildered spot in her optical illusions a gal cannot face forward and go backward.

She twists that wheel like a chef pressing a duck in the Tour d'Argent in Paris. She wallops the curb, knocks over a parking meter or low-bridges a fruit stand.

The trouble is a woman needs parking space in order to get into a parking space.

Can it be possible she is more interested in the back of her neck?

Christian World Has An Obligation To Obtain Peace For Near East

By Drew Pearson

pounds, and ten thousand in U. S. dollars."

Obligation For Peace

The public has also forgotten that Hitler's campaign of terror against the Jews started in 1933 and continued while we of the Christian world looked on, blase and little concerned. We did nothing until other religions and other lands began to feel the imprint of his hate. And for at least a year after the war started, certain American diplomats tried to keep secret the gruesome reports which came into the State Department of Nazi concentration camps, the persecution, the starvation, the eventual transition to gas chambers and soap factories.

These are memories which we of the Christian world have forgotten. Jews can never forget. They constitute a reason why the rest of the world, including the Moslems (also descended from the prophet Abraham), have a deep, unpaid obligation to the Jewish people.

The most complete way to make that restitution is to bring peace in the Near East. The Jews have already made great sacrifice to establish a homeland. What they need now is peace. Furthermore, we of the Christian world have an obligation to bring peace to that part of the world where He whose religious precepts we profess to follow first taught peace on earth, good will to men. We haven't followed it anywhere else in the world. We can begin at least where He taught.

From a monetary viewpoint, the foreign minister of Italy, Dr. Giuseppe Pella, suggested a constructive course toward peace when he conferred with John Foster Dulles in Washington last year. Pella recalled what most Americans have forgotten, that under the terms of the Marshall Plan, Western European nations soon must begin to pay off their Marshall Plan loans. Pella proposed that this money be reinvested, jointly, to reconstruct and stabilize the Near East. Mediterranean nations could join the United States in building irrigation projects and other public works to help both the Arab states and Israel to realize their interdependence, break down the barriers of prejudice and bring peace.

The Truman Plan

This is part of the idea Harry Truman was working on when he left the White House. Foreign Minister Pella would also extend cooperative French-Italian-American reconstruction aid to the Arabs of North Africa where French-Algerian bitterness has so disrupted the world.

Basically the two ideas are identical—the idea of outside nations cooperating with Near Eastern nations to get them in the habit of working together. Arab bitterness toward Israel is such that this would not be easy. But if there is unity and determination in the rest of the world—especially from Russia—it could be accomplished.

"Back in the days of the Greek and Roman empires 60,000,000 people lived in this area," Mr. Truman once told me. "Now there are about 25,000,000—all because of war, suspicion, and the destruction of the great irrigation works on the Tigris and the Euphrates."

"The people of Israel and the Arab states are both Semitic," he recalled. "They are all related if you go back to the days of Abraham. Our problem is to make them realize that they need each other."

It will take more skilful diplomacy than we are exhibiting today to put across this goal, but it can be put across. If placed on the agenda of the Summit conference it would be an important test of Russian sincerity. For if Russia and the West can agree to keep arms out of the Near East, not to cut each other's throats over Near East oil, and not to play Arabs off against Jews, then the Arabs should settle down to what can be a prosperous era of friendship in the corner of the Mediterranean where Christ first taught the world to strive for "peace on earth, good will to men," but which has been torn by war ever since.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The scooter came up Ocean Avenue, put-putting like Chinese firecrackers. It turned in a driveway and stopped. The mailman got off, rifled through some letters, dropped two in a box, and mounted his iron pony. This is Marvin Bradhurst Fowler, the one and only mailman in Sea Bright, New Jersey.

Mr. Fowler is 49 and handsome. He has broad gleaming teeth, a deep tan, sun-squinted blue eyes, and gray hair that peeks from under the faded blue cap. He has been delivering mail in this village since he got out of Temple University in 1931. There are 1,023 persons here and Mr. Fowler knows all of them and knew their fathers and mothers too.

He is disappointed, Marvin has pride and intelligence and he wanted to reach for enormous success. Someone offered him a few weeks work at the post office in depression days, and he began to reach for security. This, he feels, is a mistake.

Mr. Fowler is one of 14 children. When Marvin was born, the doctor charged $15. Mrs. Fowler paid it at the rate of 50 cents a week. Most of the Fowlers remained in and around Sea Bright, which is a fishing resort on the second knuckle of a finger of land called Sandy Hook. Today there are more Fowlers than fish.

The village is three and a quarter miles long and averages 400 feet wide. Mr. Fowler and his scooter range all of it. His day starts at 7 a. m. He goes to the post office, which is next to Sullivan's Sylvan Sanctuary for Thirsty Souls, and he sorts the morning mail. Two clerks—Harry Johnson and Gilbert Boyer—also sort mail. The postmaster, John J. Pignally, arrives a little later.

By 8:30, they have sorted an average of 5,000 pieces of mail and an equal amount of "junk mail," which is advertising and soliciting. At that time, Mr. Fowler loads his little bathtub, climbs aboard, and starts down South Beach, pausing to drop mail at Cy and Art's Store, the Peninsula House, Goldberg's Drug Store, the bank, Fowler's Hardware Store, John Keenan's Lovely Lounge for Lonesome Souls, Jack Ryan's old hotel and down through the bungalows to the south.

At 10:45, Marvin is back at the post office for the North Beach mail. He picks it up, makes his deliveries to the Ship Ahoy Motel, the William Keeler Guest House, the Edward Shea home, and on down to Highland Beach. At 1 p. m. Mr. Fowler is sitting in Charlotte's Lunch Room on a stool and bending over a beef stew or Eggs a la Sea Bright, which is to say, plain.

After lunch, he put-puts back to the post office, picks up the mail for West Park, which is really a part of Rumson, N. J., and Marvin delivers it and is ready to quit at 3:30 p. m. The scooter eases the job somewhat. He used to pedal a bike, but the legs began to falter and he paid $410 for a Cushman Eagle.

His Congressman, James C. Auchincloss, heard about it and got Marvin a post office allowance of a dollar a day for the scooter. Still, Marvin thinks of himself as less of a success than he would like to be. He started at $1,150 a year in the post office. He now earns $4,710.

He owns his own home on South Beach. It is pine-paneled and he rents a part of it for $4,500 a year. He owns 40 boat slips on the Shrewsbury and those bring $2,500. Mrs. Fowler is a book-keeper and gets $2,600. Total: $14,310 a year for the failure.

His life here has been prosaic, with few ecstasies. Once he found an open letter to a lady from her husband. It said that he was ending it all and walking into the sea. Mr. Fowler ran for the police—too late. In 27 years, the mailman has been bitten by dogs six times.

He believes that if you forget to deliver a letter to a house, you should not go back. The residents will never forget that you forgot them and they will greet you ever after with the question: "You haven't forgotten any mail for us, have you?" Another thing he has learned is never to make jokes about mail. Never say: "Here's a check for you," because, if it turns out to be a check, the recipient feels that you are reading his mail.

In the war, he enlisted as a private, came home a lieutenant. This, he felt, was real success until he met a fisherman on the street. "How come," the man said, "that these other kids got stripes on their sleeves and you ain't got none?"

Joe Brown Defends Lightweight Crown Against Dupas

Title Scrap Set Tonight For Houston

New Orleans Boxers Expected To Draw Gate Of $60,000

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
HOUSTON, Tex. (P)—Joe Brown and Ralph Dupas, a couple of New Orleans boys who couldn't meet in their home town, will battle here Wednesday night with the world's lightweight championship as the prize.

Brown, a Negro, holds the title and is making his first defense of the year. He says he wishes he could have done it in New Orleans but the Louisiana interracial law prevented it.

Anyway, said the champion as he rested at his secluded camp 20 miles from Houston, he'll win the fight, probably by a knockout and early. In fact, Brown was so confident of victory over Dupas that he already was talking about when he would defend his title against Kenny Lane, the No. 1 contender. Dupas is rated No. 2.

"By the time I get to Lane they'll have it worked out so we can fight in New Orleans," said Brown. "That will be the big money."

Brown said he figures to knock out Dupas "maybe by the fifth or sixth round. But I'm going to try to do it in the first round. I don't want to have to work any more than necessary."

Dupas Makes Weight
The champion said he thought Dupas would be easier because he has had to take off weight.

"When a fellow has to take off six or seven pounds and get down from 142 he's bound to have weakened himself," Brown observed.

"I'd beat him anyway but this way it'll be easier."

Angelo Dundee, Dupas' manager, disputed the contention that his boy had been having trouble making 135 pounds.

"He's 137 pounds and he'll be down to 135 by weigh-in without effort," said Dundee. "He's been fighting welterweights and middleweights and is strong and tough."

The largest gate for a championship or any other fight in Texas apparently is assured. Ticket sales Tuesday indicated a turnout of 11,000 paying $60,000 in the Sam Houston Coliseum at 9 p.m. (EST) for the nationally televised fight.

The previous high was 8,806 paying $46,962 for the Roy Harris-Willie Pastrano heavyweight bout here last June.

House Passes Bill For Olympic Arena

WASHINGTON (P)—A bill providing financing for a $3,500,000 sports arena for the 1960 Olympic Winter Games in Squaw Valley, Calif., was passed by the House Tuesday on a voice vote. It now goes to the Senate.

The arena would be built by the Defense Department, using funds already on hand. It would be located on land leased by the forest service to the state of California and would be used for park purposes by the state at the end of the Olympic Games.

Senators Have Winner, Attendance Up 15,000

Team Trails Yanks
By Game; Lavagetto
Lauds Pedro Ramos

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (P)—Winning at least 50 per cent of the time is still Cookie Lavagetto's goal for his startling Washington Senators. But don't get the fellow wrong.

"That doesn't mean I won't be gratified if we play better than 500 ball," he assured Washington's dazed fandom Tuesday.

Lavagetto, who relieved Charley Dressen as manager last May, set his sights on 50-50 for '58 in September when he signed a new one-year contract.

At that point the Senators were Cookie's crumbs, swept into the American League cellar and disdained by the citizenry. At this point they're frosting on the cake for patrons of Griffith Stadium whose appetite for victory has been grossly neglected in recent years.

Trail Yanks By Game
As of Tuesday afternoon Washington was second in the league, of all places, only a game behind New York. Their 9-5 record was shockingly better than .500 for a team universally expected to stumble down the basement stairs again with little fuss.

Home attendance is up nearly 15,000 over the same number of games last year. And the custom-

Hoad Favors Big Expense Accounts For Simon Pures

TORONTO (P)—Tennis professional Lew Hoad says he is in favor of big expense accounts for amateur players.

The Australian player, here for a match with Pancho Gonzalez, said "I'm all for amateurs having big expense accounts. In the long run it will be better for the game."

Hoad was commenting on the dispute in the United States between players and executives over alleged padding of expense accounts.

"Unless I had a loose expense account when I was an amateur, I would not have gone anywhere in tennis," Hoad said in an interview. "I didn't have any money of my own to travel all over the world and compete against the top players of other countries."

Rice Gets McGinnis, All-State Tackle

CHARLESTON (P)—The Charleston Gazette reported Tuesday that second team Class AA All-State football tackle David McGinnis of Charleston High School will enroll at Rice Institute in Houston, Tex., to study nuclear physics.

McGinnis, who also competes in track for the Mountain Lions, was one of 114 high school seniors in the nation to be awarded a General Motors Corp. scholarship after competitive examinations, the firm announced Tuesday.

Negro Teams Will Play At Yankee Park

Doubleheaders Are Billed On Sundays

NEW YORK (P)—The Negro American League will attempt to fill part of the gap left by the departure of the Giants and Dodgers with a series of Sunday doubleheaders at Yankee Stadium.

Julius Isaacson, president of a newly formed organization, known as Sudon Sports Promotion, Inc. Tuesday announced the appointment of Frank Forbes, a boxing judge who long has been a figure in Negro baseball promotion, as general manager.

The Memphis Red Sox will play a doubleheader against Goose Tatum's Detroit Clowns, Sunday June 1 at the stadium. Another doubleheader has been scheduled for June 29 at the Stadium between the Memphis team and the Kansas City Monarchs.

"These two dates will decide the future," said Isaacson. "If it goes, there is no telling how far we'll go. We hope to have a play-off between the first and second half winners and perhaps a game between the league all-stars and a team from Puerto Rico."

The league consists of four teams, Memphis, Kansas City, Detroit and the Birmingham Black Barons.

Vince Martinez Wins At Boston

Savoie Is Stopped In Seventh Round

BOSTON (P)—Clever Vince Martinez tuned up for his welterweight title bout next month by stopping Armand Savoie of Montreal in 48 seconds of the seventh round of a scheduled 10-rounder Tuesday at Mechanics Bldg.

Martinez weighed 148½. Savoie 144½.

Martinez hardly worked up a sweat while winning every round from the former lightweight contender before Referee Joe Zupatas called a halt as the crowd booed the dull action.

The bout was Martinez' first outing since January and served as a fine ring workout before he begins heavy training for his June 6 clash with Virgil Akins for the welterweight title vacated by Carmen Basilio.

After being warned by Zupatas for the second time to open up, Savoie landed a light left-right combination to start the seventh. It was the best effort of the night—and also his last.

Martinez sent Savoie reeling with a left-right combo to the head, and when he scored with another series of hard smashes Zupatas decided the one-sided affair had gone far enough.

When a person pretends to agree with another man's argument in order to show later how ridiculous it really is, he is said to be indulging in Socratic irony.

Giants Lead Pirates, 7-0, In 6th At San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (P)—The San Francisco Giants scored five runs in the first inning tonight and were leading the Pittsburgh Pirates by the score of 7-0 at the end of the 6th inning.

Giants Take 5-0 Lead
The Giants scored five runs in the first for a 5-0 lead after the Pirates had gone out in order. Ed Bressoud opened with a single and, after Willie Mays walked, scored on a single by Daryl Spencer.

Mays, who took third on the play, came home on a long fly to center by Ray Jablonski. When Daniels walked Orlando Cepeda, he was replaced by George Perez, another right hander. Hank Sauer walked to fill the bases. After Willie Kirkland popped out, Bob Schmidt doubled, scoring all three runners. Bressoud struck out to end the inning.

Neither team scored in the second. The Pirates again went hitless.

Cepeda Hits Homer
The Giants made it 6-0 in the third when Cepeda hit a 400-foot home run over the left center field fence. Sauer struck out on a wild pitch but reached first. The side was retired when Kirkland hit into a doubleplay and Schmidt grounded out.

McCormick continued to baffle the Pirates. In the third, he struck out Danny Kravitz and Perez and forced Roman Mejias to pop out.

Pittsburgh got its first hit off McCormick in the fifth when Roberto Clemente beat out an infield single. But Clemente was forced by Bill Mazerowski and then Kravitz hit into a double play. The Giants went down in order.

The Dodgers made it 6-5 with two runs in their sixth on Dick Gray's 430-foot triple to right center. The shot came off right-hander Dick Farrell (0-0), who became the Phils' third pitcher after John Gray had walked Neal and Furillo to open the inning. Farrell then fanned Walker, got Valo, batting for Labine, on a short fly to left and retired Giliham on a bunt.

With George Witt on the mound for Pittsburgh in place of Perez, the Giants scored again in the sixth to make it 7-0. Kirkland opened with a single. Schmidt walked and, after McCormick struck out, Bressoud also walked to fill the bases. Kirkland came home on Mays' fly to deep center. The threat ended when Spencer grounded out.

Bob Buhl, meanwhile, gained his fourth victory in five decisions although needing help in the eighth inning from Don McMahon. Gene Conley came on in the ninth.

For Milwaukee, which bunched 12 of its 13 hits in just three innings, Bob Hazle drove in three runs with three singles and Frank Torre three with a single and double. Red Schoendienst doubled in the first inning to extend his consecutive-game hitting streak to 15.

Moorefield, Altoona Return To LaSalle's Grid Schedule

Jackets Back After Absence Of 11 Years; Locals List 10 Games

LaSalle High School will play a 10-game football schedule this year, including engagements with Moorefield High School, which was last met in 1946, and Altoona Catholic High School, which has been missing from the Explorers' slate for the past two years.

The eight other teams were met by LaSalle last season.

Moorefield and LaSalle played six times from 1941 through 1946 and the Yellowjackets from Hardy County lead in the series with three wins against one loss and two tie games. The schools played scoreless ties in 1941 and 1946.

From 1929 through 1955, LaSalle and Altoona Catholic met 12 times in the gridiron and the Pennsylvanians hold a 6-4 edge in wins. Scoreless ties were played in 1929 and 1940. Altoona won the last game in 1955 by the score of 26-18 after taking three straight kickings by scores of 30-0, 44-19 and 33-6.

Brother Thomas, athletic director, announces the Explorers will play six games at home with Fort Hill, Delone Catholic of McSherrystown, Pa., Bedford, Pa., Allegany, Ridgeley and Moorefield. Contests away from home are with Berlin, Pa., Keyser, Altoona Catholic and Beall.

Boston Moves To 6th Place

Beats Chisox, 7-5; Murray Wall Wins

BOSTON — The Boston Red Sox erupted for all their runs in the first four innings for a 7-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox Tuesday behind good relief pitching of Murray Wall in a biting 49-degree temperature.

Wall didn't appear to mind the brutal weather a bit as he allowed only one run and four hits after taking over for starter Mike Fornieles with one out in the fourth.

The Red Sox moved into sixth place in the American League standings while Chicago was buried deeper in last place.

HIS STAR IS RISING - - - By Alan Maver

SPORTS GRILL by Pat Robinson International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 6 — (INS) — Any day now you may expect to read that one or more players are far ahead of Babe Ruth's pace when he hit his record 60 homers in 1927.

We have been reading such stories for 30 years, but each year when October rolls around we have found the Ruth record still standing.

That mark probably will be standing this coming October despite Walter O'Malley's kiddy park in Los Angeles. Fields have been shortened in other years, but the sluggers failed to set any new marks.

We have a strong suspicion that Ruth's mark will stand for two reasons: (1) The pitching, held back by cold weather, is bound to improve, and (2) the heavy hitters will become more and more homer conscious, as they always have when approaching 60 homers, and this in itself causes them to tighten up.

Once a hitter looms as a definite threat to the homer record, it becomes a matter of pride with the pitchers to cut him down to size. Surely none of them wants the unenviable distinction of Tom Zachary, the lefty off whom Ruth hit his 60th in 1927.

The O'Malley fence has been dubbed an invitation to records but, strange to say, the Dodgers, long noted for their righthanded power, have failed to take advantage of it. Even Gil Hodges is not getting the range.

Other legitimate right-handed long ball hitters of the National League have only 11 games in which to shoot at the fence.

There has been a move on not to count a new homer record if one should be set in the National League this year. But suppose somebody should hit 61 homers with no more than an average number of them hit in Los Angeles. Shouldn't he be entitled to the record?

Of course, there could not be the slightest question about the merit of any record set in the American League where Bob Cerv of the Athletics has been doing as well as anybody without benefit of the O'Malley travesty.

Evelyn Miss Wins In Mud At Pimlico

Wagering Drops To Only $616,597

BALTIMORE, May 6 — Pimlico race course was a sea of sloppy mud for the second straight day today as Watson Elliott's Evelyn Miss won the $4,000 Belvedere Purse.

The second day of Pimlico's 12-day spring meeting brought a steady, cold rain and 8,367 fans tightened their purse strings because of the poor track, betting only $616,597.

Evelyn Miss, a local favorite because of her bursts of late speed, won the featured seventh, a six-furlong sprint, by two lengths over Royal Holiday.

The little brown mare was out-run in the opening furlongs but showed affection for the sloppy going in the final stages when the early leaders tired. The time of 1:13 3/5 was the day's best and Evelyn Miss paid $8.40.

Royal Holiday paid $6.80 for place and Blue and White, the show horse, returned $6.80. Nayantara, 9-to-5 favorite, tired just before reaching the finish and was beaten in a picture for the show by Blue and White.

Hobbie Beats Redlegs, 4-0; Thomson Belts 3-Run Homer

Cubs' Rookie Hurls 4-Hitter; Chicago Homer Total Is 30

CHICAGO — A three-run homer by veteran Bobby Thomson and a four-hit pitching job by rookie Glenn Hobbie provided the front running Chicago Cubs with a 4-0 decision over the Cincinnati Redlegs Tuesday.

Hobbie, a 22-year-old right-hander who had 15-15 for Memphis last season, struck out 7 and walked 4 in short-circuiting the Redleg power. It was the first time Cincinnati has been held to less than two runs this season.

Thomson slammed his No. 2 homer against a brisk wind into the left field stands in the opening inning. It was Chicago's 30th homer.

Ernie Banks, who doubled, and Walt Moryn, who reached first on a fielder's choice, scored ahead of Thomson.

Starter Joe Nuxhall was lifted for a pinch hitter in the second and Hersh Freeman, his replacement, locked up in a pitching duel with Hobbie until the seventh. In the eighth, El Tappe singled off Freeman's left shin and the pitcher was removed for treatment. Willard Schmidt and Bill Wright finished. Freeman held the Cubs to two singles and struck out five.

Cubs Buy Smith From Pittsburgh

CHICAGO — Paul Leslie Smith, outfielder—first baseman, Tuesday was bought by the Chicago Cubs from the Pittsburgh Pirates for the $20,000 waiver price.

Smith, 27, batted .253 in 81 games for the Pirates last season after his return from two years in the Army. He came up through the Pirates farm system and hit .321 for Havana of the International League before entering the service.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 6 (INS) — What a team! Alan Ladd and Yul Brynner are pooling their talents and independent companies to co-star in a spectacle based on the Alamo, as yet untitled. There's quite a tale behind this merger:

Several years ago Alan starred in "The Iron Mistress," about the early life of Jim Bowie. Yul recently completed playing Jean La Fite, colorful pirate who founded Galveston, Texas, in "The Buccaneer." This, too, takes in only the early days of La Fite.

Now Alan and Yul plan to carry on the stories of Bowie and La Fite into their mature years and their deaths, both men losing their lives at the Alamo.

The boys won't attempt to put this into production until '59. Alan has several stories to follow his "Bandidos" at MGM and Yul has two pictures lined up when he completes "The Journey" in Austria.

Veteran director Edmund Goulding who has made some of the best pictures on the screen is returning to 20th Century-Fox for whom he made so many successful films. He will direct "Mardi Gras" with Pat Boone, Tommy Sands, Gary Crosby and Christine Carere.

Now there's another girl chosen for the cast. Her name is June Blair. She's an orphan and was raised in a San Francisco orphanage until she was adopted by foster parents. She's a very attractive girl and will play one of the

I've heard Irish brogues in my time but I never heard anything like the Irish accent of Kieron Moore, young actor whom Father O'Donnell introduced to me at the Beverly Hills Hotel Sunday "Brunch."

Kieron told me he is here for Disney's "Darby O'Gill and the Little People" but he is leaving in a few days to return to England for the premiere of "The Key" on May 29, an event to be graced by the presence of Princess Margaret. He has a good role in "The Key" with Sophia Loren and Bill Holden.

Keiron tells me he has lived in London for years but he was born in Sciboreen, outside of Cork. Just as I was leaving the Beverly Hilton Hotel where I had been to see Joseph Schenck and the Nicholas Schencks, I ran into Bill ("Hopalong Cassidy") Boyd, and he was as excited as a two-year old.

He had just had word from Loretta Young that she shared his idea and enthusiasm about motion picture stars with the most famous faces in the world going to the Brussels Fair to greet visitors to our exhibit. Columnist Earl Wilson also said he is in entire accord with Hoppy's idea and believes it would be a great thing if our stars who are so well known just put in an appearance at the Brussels Fair.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: The Reese Milners are expecting their fifth child in November. They have four boys and we all hope they'll have a girl as pretty as her mother, Ginny.

Doris Duke is in town for a vacation. Sophia Loren moves a few houses from Gracie and George and a block from my house when she returns from Switzerland. She and Carlo Ponti have rented the house.

Chatted with two really beautiful women at the Beverly Hills Hotel at luncheon. Irene Dunne and Mrs. Joseph Kennedy, Sr., wife of our former ambassador to the Court of St. James. Mrs. Kennedy looks incredibly young to be a grandmother. She left today for home after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Peter Lawford.

Many people will go to Santa Barbara on the 17th for the premiere of "Ten North Frederick" and buffet supper following for the benefit of St. Francis Hospital on which Maureen O'Hara has been working so hard. Heine and Dolly Walker Shondube have invited me.

Cobina Wright's cocktail party, as is usual with Cobina's social affairs, went on and on. Bea Lillie, who was one of the guests, leaves shortly for London where she'll play "Auntie Mame."

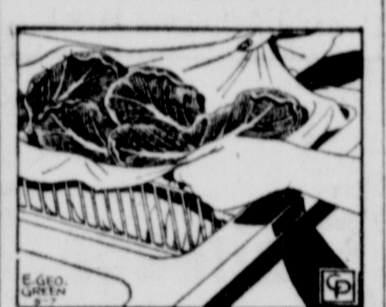

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

End Of Studio One And Kraft Theater

The demise of Studio One and Kraft Theater are not unexpected. The glory had long gone. The switch to Hollywood of Studio One was a death rattle. Only the final announcement, that it would be superseded by an $11,000,000 grab bag of film from Desilu, was a little sobering, more than a little sad. That, as they say, is the way the cookie crumbles. Film has all those delightful residual aspects for the actors, those predigested and unalterable comforts for the advertiser, a little bit of something for everyone except the viewer, whose interests no one cares about much anyhow.

I can remember when Studio One was the biggest prestige show on television, when Worthington Miner as producer and his two bright young directors, Franklin Schaffner and Paul Nickell, were pulling fresh rabbits out of the hat every week, pioneering in all sorts of new directions for live television, and making each Monday night an exciting opening.

The name "Studio One" goes way back to the '30s when it was the title of an experimental radio program. In 1947 Fletcher Markham revived it as the title of a radio dramatic series; in 1949 it began as a television dramatic series and rapidly became the Old Vic of television — full of integrity, enthusiasm and bold new techniques. In those days one of its favorite authors was William Shakespeare and Miner produced the first "Julius Caesar" in modern dress on TV (and maybe the last). It was greeted, as I recall, by bravos from practically everyone except me (but then I'm still grumbling about Orson Welles' modern dress version of "Caesar" back in the '30s for the Mercury Theater).

Studio One also did Shakespeare's "Coriolanus," the first professional American production that play ever had; "The Taming of the Shrew" and a splendid production of "Macbeth." One of its early triumphs was "Battleground," a spectacular war story which everyone thought too big for television to tackle. I'm told that such dramas as "Battleground" which seemed so triumphant at the time, now appear small and amateur, so rapidly has TV advanced. But at the time they stirred up an excitement and wonder that has almost disappeared from television.

I remember way back when, in a production of "Rembrandt," the live cameras followed the painter through a couple of rooms of his house and down the street to the market place. This was considered real hot stuff then and technically it's still pretty miraculous.

Kraft Theater last week did a production of Ernest Hemingway's "Fifty Grand" which exemplified what we are losing by abandoning live television drama entirely to film. Ralph Meeker's performance was stylish, studied, vibrant and above all, live. It's not that you can't get performance like that on film but we don't get them on TV film, only on a picture film shot for theaters.

Sidney Lumet's direction had a succession of little cameos — of the grinning wolfish gamblers in their high period collars, of the prizefighting and training camp, of expressions on the fight mob and the hangers-on and the punchy fighters — which were quick electric insights into the whole fight game, into the characters which abound there.

As usual, A. E. Hotchner did the adaptation and he caught the breathless, raw authenticity of the Hemingway dialogue about as well as I've ever heard it. Hemingway is not easy to dramatize and Hotchner does it as well as anyone. "Fifty Grand" had — I can think of no other word to express it — importance.

Years ago Studio One had importance too, because the people who were creating it — producers, directors, cameramen, everybody — just willed it importance. They thought what they were doing was just about the greatest thing in the world and because they thought so, it had that air. Filmed TV drama, it seems to me, is created by a lot of people who seem fully convinced that what they're doing doesn't amount to much — and therefore, it doesn't.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Double	2 diamonds	3 hearts
Pass	4 hearts	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of diamonds.

On a great many hands, when you don't know what to do, surprising results are frequently obtained by giving the ball to the opposition. Had declarer today allowed for the possibility that the opponents might do his guessing for him, he would have made his four heart contract.

The bidding was reasonable and West opened the king of diamonds, which declarer won and extracted trumps in two rounds. Everything appeared to hinge upon guessing the location of the jack of spades, inasmuch as two clubs and a spade had to be lost in any event.

In view of the opening bid, declarer elected to play West for the ace of spades. He therefore led the four and played the queen from dummy. This lost to the ace and the subsequent finesse of the ten of spades also failed. "Sorry, partner, I misguessed it, but the bidding threw me off."

Declarer's best bet was to coax a spade lead from the enemy. In fact, he might even be able to compel it. The seven of diamonds should be ruffed immediately and the trumps drawn. Now the ace and another club gives the ball to the opposition, and since a club may not be returned, the one who wins this trick may have to lead a spade.

If he has another club, as actually was the case, he may lead that. But now the spade lead is compelled. If worse comes to worse and the player who wins the third trick has still another club to lead, then declarer is no worse off than he was in the first place.

He simply goes out to guess the jack of spades. But it is sound tactics to postpone all guesses as long as possible. More often than not someone will tell.

Woman's Body Recovered In New Creek

Mrs. Beulah Smith's Death Is Probed

The body of Mrs. Beulah May Smith, 34, of New Creek, was recovered yesterday from the swollen, murky waters of New Creek about four miles south of Keyser along U.S. Route 220.

West Virginia authorities are conducting an investigation into the widow's death.

Cpl. Evan Moody of the Keyser detachment of the State Police said the victim's son, Robert M. Smith, of Keyser, found a note his mother left at her home, where she lived alone.

Police said there was no indication of foul play. The woman was reported to have been dependent for some time, police added.

The victim's body was discovered lying in the creek by Mr. and Mrs. Orville Crites who operate the Trading Post in Keyser.

Driving Over Bridge

The couple who apparently had been in the New Creek area on business yesterday were driving across a bridge which spans the creek near the Blue Jay Service Station and noticed the woman's body.

They went to the service station and notified city police of Keyser, who in turn called State Police and the volunteer firemen of Keyser.

The woman's body was pulled from the water by Owen Morgan, a volunteer fireman, and Allan Rotruck, co-partner of Rogers Funeral Home in Keyser, where the body was taken pending further investigation.

Police said the depth of the water was about two feet where the victim's body was recovered. Her clothes had caught on a snag in the creek, they added. The creek is about 30 feet wide at the scene and is swollen due to continuous rain of the past several days.

Police added that the victim's home, which she was reported to have recently sold, is located near the creek about six miles south of Keyser.

Body Is Examined

Dr. Paul Healy, Keyser physician, who examined the woman's body at the funeral home, decided to contact Dr. Benedict Skitarellic, local pathologist, and request that an autopsy be performed.

Corporal Moody said he was called about 5:55 p.m. (EDT).

Boy, 19, Hit By Auto At Cresaptown

A 19-year-old Cresaptown boy was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon after he was struck by an automobile as he was walking along U.S. Route 220 near his home.

State Police Trooper John H. Sweitzer said Richard Samuel Hedrick sustained lacerations of the head and hands and abrasions of the upper body. He was admitted for X-rays at the hospital where his condition is listed as "good."

Young Hedrick was struck about 1:45 p.m. yesterday while walking along the highway. The automobile was operated by William P. Wise, 73, of Route 5, Cumberland.

Trooper Sweitzer said Mr. Wise was apprehended a short distance from the scene of the accident as he was driving south along the highway. He apparently did not know he had struck the pedestrian, the officer stated.

The trooper also investigated a two-car collision on Braddock Road near the Zeller Addition about 6 p.m. yesterday.

Three persons, all occupants of one car, were treated at Memorial Hospital. They were Charles Nicholson, 38, of Route 5, Winchester Road who sustained multiple abrasions and contusions and a possible fracture of the right hand; Mrs. Pauline Nicholson, 38, his wife, who had abrasions and contusions of the legs and arms; and Mrs. Viola Saylor, 59, mother of Mr. Nicholson, who is visiting here on her way from Florida to Maine. Mrs. Saylor had a deep laceration of the left eyebrow and contusion of the legs.

The state policeman said Mr. Nicholson was operating the car which attempted to turn off the road when it was struck by an automobile operated by Edward Neat, 1210 Lafayette Avenue, who was unhurt.

Trooper Sweitzer did not indicate if charges will be preferred in either accident.

To Head TB Association

These four officers will head the Allegany-Garrett County Tuberculosis Association for the next two years after being elected at the annual meeting of the group yesterday in the association offices on Union Street. Missing when the photograph was taken was a fifth official, Byron Knight, who was named secretary. Left to right are Miss Mary Margaret Smith, second vice president;

Glenn K. Davis, first vice president; Charles M. See, president; and Joseph Naughton, treasurer. The officers were elected along with five other members of the executive committee and 20 members of the board of directors. The association also approved a $16,300 budget for the next fiscal year's operation.

TB Association Approves New $16,300 Budget

Officers Elected For Two-Year Terms

The Allegany-Garrett County Tuberculosis Association yesterday approved a $16,300 budget for the fiscal year 1958-59 at a meeting held in the association offices on Union Street.

Officers of the organization were elected to serve for the next two years. They are Charles M. See, president; Glenn K. Davis, first vice president; Miss Mary Margaret Smith, second vice president; Byron Knight, secretary; and Joseph Naughton, treasurer.

Senator See was elected to the presidency after serving an interim appointment as head of the association for the late Mrs. Stanley Buckley.

Named to the executive board in addition to the officers were Dr. Arthur Jones, Dr. Ton van Strien; Mrs. Jennie J. Graham; James S. Getty and Francis Kenney.

Directors include Dr. Ralph Ballin, Mrs. Elinor Westerfeldt, Mrs. Elizabeth Nave; Edgar M. Lewis; Dr. Thomas Lusby; Harry C. Edwards; Mrs. Herbert C. Heineman; George Hanst; H. W. McComas; Mrs. Arthur Evans; Mrs. Hazel Walters; Noel Speil Cook; Thomas Kiduff; William Wilson; Rev. John U. Lyness; Mrs. Margie Lee; R. Bowen Hardesty; Mrs. Nelson Keyes; Mrs. Pearl Blair; West Sleeman; and Ralph Beachley.

Budget Is Larger

The budget for the next fiscal year is slightly larger than the one for the 1957-58 period. Last year's budget was $16,265.08, being $34.92 less than the current appropriation.

However, the financial report given at yesterday's annual meeting showed the association's expenditures for the last fiscal period to be $16,115.67, which is $149.41 less than the budget for that year and $184.33 less than this year's needs.

The expenditures left a total of $2,166.92 in the association fund. The 1957 TB seal sales brought a total of $18,709.98 of which $3,929.10 was given to the national and state associations.

Coupled with the fund balance this gave the association a bank balance of $16,947.80. An Allegany County clinic grant of $600 will hike this total to $17,547.80, more than adequate to cover the expenses listed in the 1958-59 budget.

Expenses Are Outlined

The largest slice of the budget covers salaries for two stenographers and the executive secretary of the association, $8,900. Remaining expenses list Health Department grants, $1,500; meet-

Local Marine Reservist Seeks Instructor Title

S/Sgt. Brooke C. Atkinson, of 532 Cumberland Street, representing the Sixth Infantry Company, USMCR, is in Washington competing with 15 other contestants for the title of the nation's top Marine Reserve instructor.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Atkinson, Baltimore Pike, Sergeant Atkinson placed first in a five-state contest in March, winning a place in the national event.

He is employed by the U. S. Geological Survey here. The nationwide contest is being held at the Fifth Marine Corps Reserve and Recruitment District Headquarters.

Each contestant will make two presentations—one prepared and one impromptu—before three

Demo Senate Aspirants Attack GOP, Each Other

Maryland's candidates for the Democrat nomination for the U.S. Senate took some cracks at the Republican national administration and at each other yesterday.

Clarence D. Long called for better policies on the Middle East, tariffs, and foreign aid. James Bruce said the Republicans have left the nation headed toward war and depression. George P. Mahoney criticized Thomas D'Alesandro's support of a public works program as an anti-recession measure. D'Alesandro alone criticized nobody, but asked the voters to back him because of his experience.

Clarence Long

BALTIMORE (AP)—Clarence D. Long called Tuesday for "more realistic" United States policies on tariffs, foreign aid and the Middle East.

Long, Johns Hopkins University professor running for the Democratic nomination in Maryland's primary for U. S. Senate, said in a press statement:

"A world in chaos and poverty looks to America for moral leadership and economic assistance. But we can provide such leadership only with more realistic foreign and domestic programs, designed to meet long range needs as well as immediate demands."

"There is no economic justification for tariffs," he said. "We have them only because selfish private interest groups fear the competition and prices of products produced more efficiently elsewhere. Lower Tariffs do not undermine our living standards or our wages, as American industries, if properly run, can undersell any industry in the world by their greater efficiency."

Long said a change of policy in the Middle East is needed because "recent blunders have allowed Russia to gain a foothold which she previously was unable to accomplish under 300 years of Czarist rule."

James Bruce

ELKTON, Md. (AP)—James Bruce said Monday the Republican Administration's policies had sent the nation "drifting nearer to war abroad and toward a major depression at home."

In a statement released as he pressed his campaign for the Democratic senatorial nomination into Cecil County, Bruce said he had found residents in this area "deeply disturbed by the failure of the Republican Administration to establish either a sound foreign or domestic policy."

Accompanying Bruce on his county tour was Millard E. Tydings, former U. S. Senator.

"My friend, James Bruce, is by far the man best qualified to serve in the Senate of the United States," Tydings told storekeepers.

Judges. The subject of the impromptu presentation will not be known until 30 minutes before it is to be given.

Judges will be Brig. Gen. William W. Stickney, USMCR, deputy director of the Marine Corps Reserve; Dr. James F. Garrett, assistant director, Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, Department of Health, Education and Welfare; and John A. DeChant, Washington director, Crusade for Freedom.

Prizes include typewriters, cameras and portable radios. While in Washington, the reservists will tour the city, visit congressional representatives, lunch with the Commandant of the Marine Corps and be his guests at a Sunset Parade at the Marine Barracks.

SRC Still Seeks W.Va. Change In Bridge Policy

Wiley Ford Action Sought

Maryland's State Roads Commission is still attempting to convince the West Virginia Highway Department that the Mountain State should assume half of the cost of constructing a new bridge across the Potomac River at Wiley Ford.

This information was contained in a letter sent to James Orr, president of the Board of County Commissioners, by Robert O. Bonnell, chairman of the State Roads Commission, concerning the status of the Wiley Ford Bridge.

Mr. Bonnell explained that in the two years he has served on the SRC he has been constantly attempting a solution of the financing of a new Wiley Ford Bridge.

The SRC chairman stated that the Maryland commissioners met last June in Cumberland with Patrick Graney, West Virginia highway commissioner, in an attempt to convince the West Virginia official of the importance of a new bridge linking Wiley Ford and South Cumberland.

The West Virginia Highway Department has limited funds and Mr. Bonnell attributes this as the reason for an obvious change of policy by that state. Mr. Graney has informed the Maryland commissioners that West Virginia is willing to pay only for the West Virginia approach to the bridge on the grounds that Maryland has jurisdiction of the Potomac River to its West Virginia bank.

This is a reversal of all previous West Virginia policy concerning bridges across the Potomac River. Mr. Bonnell pointed out that West Virginia paid half of the cost of the new bridge linking Ridgeley and Cumberland.

Mr. Bonnell did cite in his letter that Mayor Roy W. Eves has indicated that Cumberland will assume the cost of the Maryland approach to the Wiley Ford Bridge.

D'Alesandro

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro asked a television audience Tuesday night to support him for Maryland's Democratic senatorial nomination on the basis of his experience as legislator, city councilman, congressman and chief executive of Baltimore.

In marked contrast to his fiery speeches before political club audiences, the mayor's address mentioned none of his six opponents by name, contained a matter-of-fact review of his 32 years in office, and set forth his views on campaign issues.

"When a man aspires to the high office of the United States Senator," he said in the speech prepared for 9 p.m. delivery, "he should be able to present to the voters something more concrete than the mere fact that he wants the job."

He expressed pride in the part he played as a congressman in "helping to formulate the policies that ended the depression and hastened the end of the Great War."

In his only reference to his opponents, D'Alesandro said: "I ask you to consider the background of my Democratic opponents, not one of whom has ever been elected to any office or has had a single day of legislative experience, then consider my own legislative record in the Maryland General Assembly, the Baltimore City Council and the Congress of the United States."

Driver Jailed, Fined $500 In Fatal Accident

John D. Morris, 19, Enters Guilty Plea

The driver of a car which crashed Saturday at midnight on Route 28 south of Wiley Ford, killing two boys and hospitalizing another, was sentenced yesterday to six months in the Mineral County Jail and was fined $500.

He is John David Morris, 19, of RD 1, Ridgeley, who pleaded guilty to a charge of negligent homicide during a hearing yesterday afternoon before Miss Madalyn Bazzle, justice of the peace in Keyser.

Young Morris, who is a seaman in the Navy, stationed at Newport, R. I., began serving his six-month term in the county jail yesterday. His father, Samuel Morris, was present at the hearing.

Miss Bazzle asked them if they had counsel and when they replied no, she asked them if they wanted to be represented but they said they did not want a lawyer.

Also present at the hearing was Trooper Robert Neechel, of the Keyser detachment of State Police, who investigated the fatal crash.

Killed in the crash were the driver's younger brother, Ronald G. Morris, 17, a junior at Ridgeley High School and John K. Wolfe, 18, of RFD 3, Gate City, Va., who was employed as an office clerk in a produce house in Washington.

John K. Boyland, 16, of RD 1, Ridgeley, who was seriously injured in the crash, is reported improving at Memorial Hospital and "much better." His condition last night was reported as good.

He suffered a fractured skull, fractured right arm and left collarbone and a deep laceration of his scalp when he was thrown from the car.

The two men who died also were thrown from the car when it went out of control about five miles south of Ridgeley near the turn-around. The driver was slightly injured in the crash.

After going out of control the car traveled along the berm and an embankment for some distance, clipped a utility pole continuing for another 150 feet before stopping.

Mock Atom Radiation Falls Here

Western Maryland came under a heavy make-believe cloud of radiation which threatened untold casualties for a period of 12 to 24 hours yesterday after Pennsylvania and Maryland areas were struck by nuclear bombs in a theoretical attack.

William G. Barger, Allegany County Civil Defense director, said the heavy fallout swept over the western end of the state sometime between 9 and 10 o'clock last night. The radiation came from a simulated attack on Pittsburgh at 1:45 p.m. during "Operation Alert," a Civil Defense test exercise throughout the nation.

Mr. Barger said Allegany County received a simulated attack alert at 11:01 a.m. yesterday that gave the county less than two hours to prepare for the assault. At 1:45 p.m., CD headquarters at Constitution Park here received word that Baltimore and Pittsburgh had been hit.

At the first warning the county CD staff was alerted to stand by. The radiation was of such intensity, theoretically, that the general public would have been ordered to take cover and stay indoors for 12 to 24 hours or until a survey indicated it was safe enough to venture out.

Trash Drive Ends Today On West Side

Backtrack Days Set Thursday, Friday

Street Department crews will collect trash and debris on the West Side today.

Residents were urged to get all of the unwanted trash on the curbs by 8 a.m. when the crews begin final rounds of the annual trash collection.

In spite of drenching rain which has made the task more difficult than usual, it has been a good collection, reports Andrew Heller, street superintendent.

He said the crews did not quite finish work in the North End yesterday, and that one or two crews will be sent there this morning to get the rest.

Except for one crew assigned to patching holes in the streets, all available men have been assigned to the trash drive.

The men are operating 12 trucks which on Monday collected 44 truckloads of trash in the South End and East Side area.

Mr. Heller said he had no report on collections yesterday, but that they were quite heavy.

The men, he said, have been doing a wonderful job in spite of the fact that the weather has been against them.

If you were missed, don't despair.

Mr. Heller said the crews will be working Thursday and Friday to complete the trash collection.

Debris missed, he said, will be picked up during the "backtracking" days if citizens will call the Street Department warehouse on Valley Street.

Area Streams Drop As Light Drizzle Falls

Streams in the area dropped past the danger point yesterday as the heavy rains which began Saturday turned to a light drizzle.

Robert R. Golden, official weather observer, said yesterday's light rain amounted to only 7/100 of an inch at 7 p.m. and that although the barometer was still falling slowly, the skies may begin to clear soon.

The series of rains which began Saturday morning totaled 2.68 inches. The average May rainfall for the city is 3.39 inches. The thermometer stood virtually still during the rainy day, with a low of 45 and a high of 46 degrees.

Both Wills Creek and the Potomac River dropped below the danger point yesterday as the heavy rains ceased.

At 7 p.m., the Potomac River at Wiley Ford stood at 12:43 feet, down 2.8 feet since it crested at 5:15.

Wills Creek crested at 8:50 feet early yesterday and had dropped two feet by 9 a.m. when the temporary Baltimore Street bridge was reopened.

The high waters proved the worth of the still incomplete flood protection structures in Wills Creek.

Rex E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers, said water would have been in Mechanic Street without flood control improvements.

Davis Hospitalized

Lewyn C. Davis, of 828 Greene Street, a supervisor of junior high schools of Allegany County, is reported in "fair" condition at Memorial Hospital, where he was admitted as a medical patient Sunday.

Vets Meet Tonight

Garrett Voting Board Members Won't Resign

Hinebaugh, Bond Seek Party Posts

Two members of the Garrett County Board of Election Supervisors said yesterday they will not resign in order to run for election to the county's Republican State Central Committee in the May 20 primary.

H. Ward Hinebaugh, president of the election board, and Roger W. Bond, majority member, said they plan to sit tight unless Governor Theodore R. McKeldin should ask them to resign.

They said this seems unlikely in view of a recent statement by the governor on a similar situation in Howard County. At that time, the governor said he could see no objection to such dual job-holding because the office of state central committeeman is a party position, not a public office.

Controversy over the candidacy of Mr. Hinebaugh and Mr. Bond has existed almost since they filed for election to the committee. There are nine candidates for the four jobs to be filled.

Opinions Conflict

Mr. Hinebaugh and Mr. Bond said it has been suggested they should not hold office on the election board and run for party office at the same time.

They cited an April 16 opinion from Attorney General C. Ferdinand Sybert which held that a candidate for a public office could continue to hold a position on his party's committee.

A week later, Assistant Attorney General Charles B. Reeves Jr., in answer to a question from a Howard County objector, wrote that a member of an election board should not run for any office in which there is a contest, because he would be canvassing the votes for his own election. Mr. Reeves cited an opinion to this effect from the late Albert Ritchie, who was attorney general from 1915 to 1918.

But at the same time, someone had asked Governor McKeldin about it, and his answer was different. The governor said:

"I doubt that any politically active or informed person in Maryland is so naive as to feel a sense of shock at the candidacy of a member of the Board of Election Supervisors for a place on his party's state central committee."

"I see no impropriety whatever in such a candidacy."

Not A Public Office

"Maryland law frankly recognizes election supervisors as representatives of their respective parties. I am of the opinion that all of the supervisors are active in the political affairs of their civil divisions. Without checking, I have no doubt that some of

Lonaconing Acts To Appoint Councilman

Utilizing the opportunity offered under Maryland's expanded home rule, the Mayor and Council of Lonaconing have voted to amend their town charter so that a successor to the late Douglas G. Waddell can be appointed.

Section 347 of the Lonaconing town charter provides that a special election shall be held to fill a vacancy on the council if more than six months remain in the unexpired term.

When Mr. Waddell died April 28 more than a year was left in his term.

The Mayor and Council, citing the cost of between $300 and $350 for a special election, have instructed Town Attorney James S. Getty to prepare the necessary resolution so that a successor to Mr. Waddell can be appointed. This resolution is due for consideration at the May 19 council meeting.

Lonaconing will not have a regular election until the first Tuesday in May 1959. The Mayor and four councilmen elected then will take office on the first Tuesday in June 1959.

Robert B. Thomas, town clerk, has been instructed to receive applications from persons who would like to be considered for the councilmanic appointment until 7:30 p.m. Monday, June 2.

Wilmoth F. Garlitz is mayor of Lonaconing. The three remaining councilmen are John G. Thomas, Robert M. Grove and Benjamin E. Zarger.

Advice From Mrs. Maryland

Taking time out from her busy round of activities in competition for the title of Mrs. America, Mrs. Raymond Lapp of Cumberland, who is Mrs. Maryland, stops to point out the importance of U.S. Savings Bonds. Mrs. Lapp competed yesterday in sewing and hair grooming contests. Today she must dye a tablecloth and 12 napkins, to be used in a formal dinner table arrangement she will make. Thursday and Friday will include cooking contests, and the final winner will be announced Saturday night.
